

WOOD

•

NOTES

Natural Wood, Natural Variations

Wood is a product of nature, offering variations as deep as our human fingerprint. Its appeal is its infinite, imperfect variety, and it is the uniqueness this creates that we value so highly in its materiality. Grain variation, knots, and growth rings are naturally occurring properties within wood, lending an uncontrollable uniqueness to each piece. As with all natural materials, you may notice that the coloration of your wood can change imperceptibly – beautifully - over time; time is a great friend to natural products and something we celebrate at Nickey Kehoe.

FINISH SELECTION

When viewing color or finish samples, please appreciate a sample is meant to reflect a typical color and finish tone; your piece of furniture may differ slightly due to variations in color, grain, and texture of the wood species. Some variation in color tone is unavoidable and an exact match to our finish samples is not guaranteed.

CARE INSTRUCTIONS

Wipe wood with a slightly damp cloth; note that a small amount of finish may transfer to the cloth. Always clean entire surface to maintain uniform finish. Use coasters or trivets to help prevent marks and stains. The occasional application of a high-quality clear furniture wax will help protect the finish from minor spills. Please note that slight variations in color and an incomplete seal may occur with any sealant; test on an inconspicuous area first.

Please follow care instructions for your furniture piece.
Our studio is available for any questions you may have.