

PITCHFORK
MARGARET RIVER
SEMILLON SAUVIGNON BLANC 2020

PITCHFORK

Saline and fine, the palate is all about squeaky-clean, pure fruit. Where others of this delicacy may appear dilute or washed out, this has a cleansing, rainwater-esque clarity. The fruit was sourced from several Margaret River vineyards: sauvignon blanc from the southern Karridale and Rosabrook areas, while the semillon was from Wilyabrup. Nice lingering finish, too.

Wine Companion - Erin Larkin, March 2021

Serious value!

Sometimes you just want a white wine that is zippy, lively, crisp, and youthful. This fits the bill perfectly. It is uncomplicated but refreshing, with grassy aromas, citrus and tropical fruit flavours, and very crisp acid on the finish. Made from Margaret River grapes, this comes in an eco-friendly lightweight glass bottle, so you can help save the planet while getting buzzed. A perfect partner for fish and chips.

Winsor Dobbin, July 2020