From the coolest block on the vineyard, free-run juice direct to French barrels (35% new), no mlf, no stirring, 11 months on lees. More restrained than most quality chardonnays from the Margaret River, Yarra Valley, etc.

95 Points | Huon Hooke, The Real Review

Wine of the Week, #7 of 47 2018 Chardonnay from Margaret River

The colour is a bright light-yellow and it has a lovely creamy, pear-like aroma with stony, flinty mineral overtones. It's complex and racy; taut, refined and super-lively in the mouth. Lemony flavours rule. A fine chardonnay in a racy, Chablis-like style.

91 Points | James Suckling

Attractive poached pears with a very pared-back feel to the palate that is driven with acidic cut and drive. Austere finish. Drink or hold.

From mature, low yielding Gingin clone vines. The colour is full straw-green, the bouquet and palate very complex and energetic with grapefruit riding shotgun over a subtext of melon, fig and peach.

The progression of Margaret River chardonnay continues unabated. Exceptionally fine and poised, it is laden with white peach, nectarine and a hint of complex leesy oak. Superbly fine and poised, long and energetic.

This is in the heart of the grand complexity of Margaret River chardonnay style, with exceptional depth of flavour and structure amplified by the old vines and the Gingin clone; white peach, nectarine and fig fruit and creamy cashew notes are balanced by crisp, firm acidity.

Block 6 is planted to the low-yielding, small-berry Gingin clone: the decision to pick (early) has been handsomely repaid with the tension between the ripe white peach in the heart of the wine and its vibrant citrusy acidity, oak an interested observer.

These Hay Shed Hill chardonnays have reached a new level in recent years, and this one is another cracker. Classically Margaret River with its powerful palate and super fruit intensity, there is a nice mix of grapefruit and pear with a little roasted cashew influence. It retains a lively freshness which makes for excellent current drinking.
