

Grip Options

Which grip option is best for you?

An integral part of the Arcane Cane's design is the employment of texture along its shaft and "T" handle. These features are designed to reduce unwanted slipping and make it possible to wield your Arcane Cane in a variety of positions, in part making it easier to use as a self protection tool. In this current version, a USA made manufacturer has been selected for their superior quality to be used on our Arcane Cane's.

The "Original Grip" design uses a mild somewhat soft and textured grip. It looks elegant, and maybe like a pinstripe of flat black down the gloss black shaft. On the handle the "Original Grip" style Arcane Cane is more forgiving to a softer hand.

What is the "Heavy Duty Silicon Carbide Grip" option? If you see your Arcane Cane as primarily a self protection tool and would prefer a super extra heavy duty grip, then you may want to choose this option. The prototype Arcane Cane all used this Silicon Carbide grip tape application after it was found to be used by some gun manufacturers on their handles. The softer tape that is our current standard was chosen having the less extreme person's needs in mind. It is attractive and sufficient grip and somewhat subtle in appearance. Some might find the "Heavy Duty Silicon Carbide Grip" tape on their Arcane to be rough on their hands. If that is a consideration, please go with the "Original Grip" style.

Have a question or concern about your Arcane Cane? Drop us a line... We'd love to hear from you! Contact us via email at arcanecane@gmail.com.