

EMERGENCY PLAN

Having a plan in place reduces stress after an emergency.

Tell your emergency contact person that you have chosen them and discuss their role during an emergency. They are the "point person" that family members will text (call, if available) to let them know their status and location. This contact person keeps track of information and relays it to other family members. Make sure all family members have the emergency contact person's information with them at all times and understand what to do. For small children who are not with you, make sure their schools/providers have this emergency contact info.

EMERGENCY MEETING PLACES

Choose three different meeting places. Practice going to these meeting places. Start with the first, then walk to the second, then walk to the third. Know and discuss plans if kids are at school/daycare. Who will make their way to them? Practice alternative routes to each meeting place by foot.

FIRST MEETING PLACE

Choose a safe place outside your residence to meet after the shaking stops.

SECOND MEETING PLACE

Choose a nearby open space to meet (park, school) in case your primary spot is unsafe.

THIRD MEETING PLACE

Choose a place outside of your immediate neighborhood in case your neighborhood is evacuated.
