

Lux is a standard unit of illuminance.

In photometry, this is used as a measure of the intensity, as perceived by the human eye, of light that hits or passes through a surface.

To compare the heater output with a few values

Office setup with neon lights 500 - 800 lux

Sunny day outside 10 000 - 30 000

G4 Element colour comparison

striking energy