

Search this site

WHAT'S NEW

SHOPPING

GUEST BLOG

ABOUT US

CULTURE

FOOD

HOME

KIDS

OUTSIDE LONDON

STYLE

TRAVEL GUIDES

FOOD

AMELIA ROPE CHOCOLATE

SHARE

RELATED

GORGEOUS TECH CASES

HOUSE GUEST PRESENTS

POSTED IN

FOOD, Markets & Shopping, WHAT'S

NEW

There has been a gap in our lives since Green & Black's were bought by Cadbury (and then Kraft). We used to eat half a bar every night as our pudding staple, and of course it's still perfectly good, but they've discontinued, at least for now, our two favourite flavours: cherry and almond, because those bars weren't as profitable to produce as the others. It's sort of soured our taste for their other flavours too, but we have missed our nightly treat. That is, until we discovered Amelia Rope Chocolate. It's our new favourite fix. It's hand made in England using the best quality ingredients – which you can taste. We love Rope's plain dark and milk (or what Rope calls 'pale') chocolate, but it's the flavoured bars that makes this chocolate different from any other high quality stuff on the market. She uses nuts, citrus and salt to great effect, and we love her dark smoked cashew nut bar almost as much as the pale lime and sea salt. Our favourite flavour, however, is dark hazlenut and sea salt, which is dangerously addictive. Rope has also made us enjoy white chocolate for the first time, and her white chocolate bar with with pistachio and sea salt is delicious. At £5.60 for a 100g bar, this isn't the cheapest chocolate you'll find, but for our money it's the best.

Where: AVAILABLE AT LIBERTY, FENWICK, SELFRIDGES, FORTNUM & MASON, AND

WHOLEFOODS
AS WELL AS ONLINE.

Price: £5.60 FOR 100G
BAR

Website: [AMELIA ROPE
CHOCOLATE](#)

Tags: AMELIA ROPE,
CHOCOLATE,
FORTNUM &
MASON,
LIBERTY, SEA
SALT AND HAZELNUT,
WHITE
CHOCOLATE

— Daisy

13th November 2013

0 comments

Leave a message...

Best

No one has commented yet.

Subscribe

Add Disqus to your site

- HOME
- WHAT'S NEW
- SHOPPING
- GUEST BLOG
- PRESS
- ABOUT US
- CONTACT US
- PRIVACY POLICY
- TERMS & CONDITIONS
- RSS
- FACEBOOK
- TWITTER