

Rachel Khoo's

SIDE ORDERS

She shot to fame with her Little Paris Kitchen TV show – now Rachel shares her foodie secrets in an unmissable weekly column

STRIPES DON'T NEED to be confined to the coast. TG Green's Cornishware offers a glorious array of colourful striped crockery, adding a hint of the Cornish coastline to any kitchen. Their large mugs are just perfect for when you want a hefty cuppa and they make lovely gifts for those who are nostalgic for summer holidays.

340ml (12fl oz) mug, £13.50, www.cornishware.co.uk.

AMELIA ROPE is a British chocolatier giving the French a run for their money. Her award-winning chocolates are just as delicious as they look in their array of colourful foils. Her Boxed chocolates, flavoured with sea salt. The Pale Sea Salt Collection of 24 cubes costs £29, www.ameliarope.com.

Chocolate Cubes are a stunning assortment of individually wrapped

I RECENTLY DISCOVERED the Seafood & Eat It range of Cornish crab meat (£3.85 for 100g, Ocado) and made this speedy pâté. Mix 100g (3½oz) crab meat (I used 50/50 white and brown meat) with 150g (5½oz) ricotta. Add the zest of half a lemon, Tabasco sauce to taste and a sprinkling of sea salt. Serve with hot buttered toast.

I LOVE A TIMELESS anchor print and have fallen for this tablecloth from Anthropologie. It's the perfect backdrop for a seafood feast and there are matching napkins to take your dinner party up a notch. 305cm x 152cm, £128, www.anthropologie.eu.

Follow Rachel on Twitter at @rkhooks