INFORMATION

Food contact materials, including active materials and articles, must be manufactured according to good manufacturing practices, so that under normal or foreseeable conditions of use, they do not release components into food in quantities that could pose a health risk. Similarly, unacceptable changes in composition or deterioration of the products' organoleptic properties (consistency, taste, color, and aroma) should be avoided. When you purchase a product from us, you can safely expect that our products comply with the above-mentioned regulations, provided that the goods are handled according to their intended purpose.

We have our designs produced by suppliers who adhere to GMP (Good Manufacturing Practice) rules, ensuring that you are not exposed to unnecessary and unknown chemical risks.
