What is your world vision?

There are many challenges in the world today, but with Christmas comes hope. As you prepare to celebrate Jesus' birth, I invite you to imagine what a wonderful world it could be. Imagine a world where children have enough food to eat and clean water to drink. A world where schools are full of books and clinics are full of medicine.

Whatever you're imagining, however you want to make a difference, there's a gift you can give through the World Vision Gift Catalogue. Giving the gift of a chicken, goat or other animal provides families with nutritious eggs, milk and a sustainable income. A gift of education can help break the cycle of poverty. Giving emergency food can save the lives of malnourished children.

This Christmas, give a life-changing gift and help make your world vision come true.

Wishing peace to you and your loved ones,

Michael Messenger
President, World Vision Canada

Milk, eggs and income

Give a goat and chickens! We've paired our most popular animals, so you can give struggling families meaningful gifts that will bring long-term change.

Livestock combos

- Goats, hens and roosters $150 (3319)
- 2 hens and a rooster $50 (1552)

When you give to the Farm Animal Fund, donations are pooled together to provide farm animals such as cows, piglets, sheep and chickens that provide families with improved nutrition and increased income.

- Farm animal fund $100 (5587)
- $60 (5645)

What's so special about our animals?

When you give livestock through World Vision, it's part of a greater community development program. Animals are purchased locally and distributed to families in need along with feed, training and other support. By yielding products like milk and eggs, these animals generate income, making it possible for families to pay school fees or even start a business. In addition, World Vision provides families with business guidance and skills, giving them—and their communities—a sustainable path to a new life.

Our promise to you

We're committed to honouring your generosity and ensuring the gift you selected gets to a community in need. Only in exceptional circumstances, such as an emergency, might the donation be used for a similar or more urgent need. The suggested donation amounts shown for each item in the Gift Catalogue are based on periodic surveys of the countries you help us serve and are pooled together to provide the selected item.

Chickens help families thrive

EGGS.
PROTEIN.
INCOME.

The crack of an egg. The first tiny chirp of a newborn chick. These small delights bring joy to children and families who receive hens and a rooster. Better yet, these wonderful birds provide an ongoing source of income, food rich in protein, vitamins and nutrients, and health for growing girls and boys—so their dreams can take flight.

Chickens are just chickens, right?

Maybe so. But when you give chickens or any other animals from the World Vision Gift Catalogue, you help entire communities thrive. Your hens and roosters are purchased locally. They're then delivered to a family, along with feed, training and other support to ensure the birds multiply into a whole flock. That flock creates income and resources that empower children and families with bright futures. Just chickens? More like super chickens to the rescue.

When you select an item from the Gift Catalogue, your donation will be used to support World Vision projects in developing countries. Suggested donation amounts for the items are calculated at the time of planning and vary from country to country. Whenever possible, items or services will be procured locally and provided to a child or family in need as part of a project in their community. Many of the featured items are part of larger World Vision development programs that help entire communities to overcome poverty and achieve self-reliance.

Constance's family depends on goats for food and livelihood.

Goats are hearty and practical animals. Their milk is rich in protein, calcium and other nutrients, and is a great benefit to children in need. A goat can provide fertilizer to grow crops, hundreds of litres of milk, cheese and even the start of a whole herd, providing families with an ongoing income.

The buzz about bees

Bees are a smart gift and a great small business opportunity. Equipped with beekeeping supplies and beehives, beekeepers can produce 50 kilos or more of honey a year to sell or trade. Sweet!

Beehives $100 (1800)
Beekeeping kits $60 (1792)

Warm and woolly alpacas

The wool from alpacas is one of the world's most highly valued—they can produce more than 4 kilos in a year. That's plenty of clothing, blankets and rugs for families to weave, wear and sell.

Alpacas $225 (2196)

Count on sheep

Protein-rich milk. Warm wool for weaving. Two to three lambs a year. It's easy to see why healthy sheep are a blessing for families in need.

Sheep $300 (3418) $150 (1594)

Chicks for change

Baby chicks produce more than a cuteness factor. They provide a source of income for families, and when chicks grow up they produce nutritious eggs for children to eat.

Baby chicks $40 (6411) $20 (4432)

#1 GROUP GIFT

A full stable = stable food and income

Break the cycle of poverty when you help fill a stable with farm animals like milk-producing goats and cows, woolly sheep, prolifically breeding pigs and chickens or ducks for eggs. What an ideal way to join with friends, family or co-workers and give a group gift.
