SLING CHAIR

Low slung for slinky glam. Sling is an entirely original, clean idealization of a Modernist lounge chair silhouette, executed in particular Roman and Williams method. Base frame-and-leg component was first prototyped using paper; the frame in production is made from a single, bent and twisted bar. This difficult metalworking method was more common at the turn of the century than today, and we prize the organic variances produced – no two Sling chairs are exactly alike.

Chair as shown is dark and cool, but metal and leather can be custom selected, changing the tone of the piece dramatically. A version in rose gold with white leather would be seriously glamorous.
