TENERESQUE

Dream deep. Sometimes, instead of consciously imposing a structure onto a material, we prefer to open a door, to let dreams out. Teneresque started as an abstract painting of plants by Stephen Alesch. We took this to the Croatian artisan Vedran Jakši, who interpreted the vision further, into a carved façade.

There's a terrific history of artists making elaborate furniture, but it's unusual for design companies to offer this style of work – they can't be exactly replicated. But as far as we're concerned– that's the point!
