The Seed Pendant is made from cast bronze using the “lost wax” process, long employed by metal sculptors including Alberto Giacometti and Auguste Rodin. The Seed Pendant lighting fixture consists of a cast bronze chain and a handblown glass shade. Each link is individually cast and assembled for a custom drop; the canopy and fitter are also cast bronze, their irregular and uneven surfaces revealing the sculpting and casting process behind their creation. The shade is a single piece of handblown glass, with a nude glass gradient extending from the fitter. Oblong in shape, the Seed shade resembles an elongated pod, an unexpected form culminating in a sprouting bronze cap.
