

7 Innovative, All-Natural Face Powders for Flawless Skin

Not since Bare Minerals made mineral makeup a "thing" in the late nineties, have we heard so much about powders. Recent innovations in makeup technology mean more brands are coming out with new powder products that make good on some outrageous promises, such as not settling into fine lines, not making a mess, and even giving you better skin over time. Plus, with the growing popularity of natural beauty, it's never been easier to find powders that are good for you, safe for the earth, and are sustainably sourced and packaged. All that, plus super-glam, luxurious packaging mean it's probably time to reconsider powder makeup — and we've got seven great ways to start.

BY EMILY BARTH ISLER

© JUNE 2, 2017

Kari Gran Customizable Liquid Foundation

Customizable foundation is a slow growing phenomenon and Seattle-based skincare genius, Kari Gran, is one of the first natural brands to offer the service with her liquid foundation. So what's it doing in a round-up of powder makeup?

Well, Gran's customizable foundation is made in part with mineral powder.

Choose the amount of powder you want to add to Gran's Essential Serum or Three Sixty Five Sunscreen to get coverage as sheer or as opaque as you want on any given day. Start out with the Foundation Sample Kit so you can decide what shade, or combination of shades, works best for you.