

Hello Dollface, Naturally

A place for Wellness & Clean Beauty

Have you tried Kari Gran?

AUGUST 5, 2014

I'm always on the lookout for high quality, natural, non toxic makeup and skincare. One of my favorite things to do is sit at my computer and research various brands and products to feature here on Hello Dollface.

A brand that popped up was Kari Gran. I was instantly intrigued! Read this, about the founder:

“After I was diagnosed with an autoimmune disorder in my late twenties I started taking a more informed look at what I was putting on my skin. I learned that, like a giant sponge, anything you put directly on your skin is absorbed right into the blood stream. It turned out that the beauty products I was using weren't so pretty after all, but instead, chemical concoctions—many of them hormone disruptors.

My endocrine system did not approve. Undaunted, I began searching for natural alternatives. After finding an abundance of what I'll call “earthy” products and plastic packaging I was left yearning for something simple, elegant and subtly scented—the little black dress of eco-skin care. Fast forward to my forties, when I started thinking about developing my own, personal, back- to-basics approach to elegant skin care by seeking out the fundamental ingredients our skin requires in order to thrive.

I have developed a thorough understanding of our most basic skin needs, as well as the elements that nourish a healthy complexion. Combining these elements with a simple, daily ritual yielded fantastic results."

I am totally on board with all of that! Here's what I tried from this fantastic brand:

Radiant Lip Whip & Brush- The sleek brush makes it so glamorous to apply this lovely lip moisturizer. Your lips will be tinted a pale pink and they will be super soft. Made with a blend of oils, this is my go-to product when I want to keep lips looking rosy and natural. I love the feeling of this on my lips and you will too.

Essential Serum- I am always seeking out serums that will feed my face and brighten skin. A small amount is all you need for the face- I also like to apply to my neck and hands too. The smell of this is divine, its earthy and herbal but fresh too. The Essential Serum is made up of numerous oils like camellia seed, rosehip seed, jasmine, sweet almond just to name a handful.

I like how this serum can take the place of a moisturizer or primer and either prep skin for makeup or simply be applied to nourish the skin alone. Its light and non-greasy, good for all skin types but I think dry skin will really benefit from using this! WOW, the Peony Mineral Blush is just SO PRETTY! The flattering shade of pink is gorgeous just sitting in its container!

Here's what you need to know about it: Free of talc, fragrance, dyes, bismuth oxychloride, parabens, nano particles which makes it truly non toxic.

This very pigmented color is long lasting and I'm wondering about adding a little color to some of my clear lip gloss to give it a little punch of pink!

I love what I tried and recommend that you give Kari Gran products a whirl! You can check out more by going here.