Confession: Every spring our lips start to chap. Like, hard body, the skin off a snake, chapped.

But luckily we work in a world where there are a plethora of lip balm solutions beyond the preverbal ChapStick—no shade. In our world, often guided by reviews and a lot of trial and error, we know there are a variety of remedies for dry lips.

For the low maintenance girl, there are easy tube or jar options that require no lip prep. But for more serious beauty lovers, like our assistant editor Nikki Brown, the more intense the better.

Below, we've gathered some old and new best lip balm options. The last on the list is a two-step process, that removes dry skin and replenishes.

Check them all out, below!
