I've heeded all the warnings about the dangers of the summer sun—it can burn you, zap the moisture from your hair, dry out your skin—but what about your lips? Mine get just as parched in the warm months as they do in the winter, which is why I keep Kari Gran's new Radiant Lip Whip ($30) by my side.

This tinted, whipped balm is light as air and feels luxurious on the lips. It's formulated with organic and non-GMO ingredients that satisfy my inner green-beauty queen, and give my lips a major dose of nourishing oils. I've even been known to use it to moisturize dry cuticles in a pinch. The formula is rich without being sticky and gives just a touch of pink hue and a little shine to the lips. It even has a light, refreshing peppermint scent.

This particular shade of Lip Whip also comes with a retractable brush so you can keep your fingers clean when you apply it. If you prefer no color, the brand carries a "naked" version ($15) that has no tint to it.

Once you convert to this rich lip treatment and see how soft your pout is, you'll be a devotee. Get your Lip Whip here.
