More than a “look”, WallyGrow products are a commitment to design, performance, and sustainability.

WallyGrow has manufactured and supplied plant wall systems for more than 10 years in the business, entertainment, education, hospitality, retail, and consumer space.

Throughout those years, WallyGrow has evolved into a key player within the plant lifestyle, so it only made sense to launch a Home Collection line to continue to encompass all things style and sustainability into our customers homes.

We proudly partnered with the artist Jenny Kiker of Living Pattern to manufacture her botanical designs. Jenny is a watercolorist living in South Florida. Originally from North Carolina, she graduated from Savannah College of Art & Design with an Illustration major and Painting minor. She uses her art as a way to draw appreciation to nature, and to connect herself and her audience to its delicateness. She lets the subject inform where the lines in a piece want to go and how they want to feel. The ink is free to deepen and soften, just as the color would in the natural world.
