Marta Scarampi's Rachel Cape

Truly embracing the concept of slow fashion, the Rachel Cape is made on-demand to ensure zero waste, setting a new standard in fashion (and in eco-friendly gifts).

Throughout the industry, 92 million tons of excess product and fabric are thrown away each and every year, according to the Pulse of the Fashion Industry report. To avoid adding to the problem and reduce over-ordering, Marta Scarampi purchases fabric multiple times during each season. Besides all of that goodness, this cape is also the perfect in-flight layer, keeping your arms free for dinner service. Winner.
