World Cancer Day

World Cancer Day is marked on February 4 to raise awareness about cancer and to encourage prevention, detection, and treatment. World Cancer Day was founded by the Union for International Cancer Control (UICC) to support the goals of the World Cancer Declaration, written in 2008. The primary goal of World Cancer Day is to significantly reduce illness and death caused by cancer by 2020. The Tshwane Sun urges residents of Atteridgeville and Sausville to come together in support of those suffering from any form of cancer.

Four in court for kidnapping and murder

Four suspects accused of kidnapping and murdering, 15-year-old, Keleabetsa Seleka appeared at the Atteridgeville Magistrates Court for a formal bail application on Tuesday, January 17, 2017.

Keleabetsa Seleka, a resident of Centurion, was reported missing in November 2016. A missing persons docket was opened at the Lyttelton Police Station.

Investigating Officer Lebogang Monareng said that he told the court that John Lekubu, accused number one in the case, confessed to the police how Keleabetsa had lost her life. Monareng said that Keleabetsa had left home in Centurion, on November 28, to sleep over at a classmate's home, also in Centurion. However, she detoured to another classmate in Atteridgeville, where she confessed that she was going to meet a certain "blessed" in Brazzaville. Lekubu admitted to luring Keleabetsa to Brazzaville, via Facebook, under false pretenses. He indicated that the deceased was initially given a bunny chow meal laced with poison. Thereafter, a cloth was tied over her mouth to silence her cries of distress.

Keleabetsa was robbed of her phone, assaulted and finally killed. Tebogo Mabolane, another of the accused, had taken a rope and strangled her, when she apparently refused to give the thugs her bank pin code. The court heard she was killed on November 29 and her body was discovered on December 28. The four accused: John Lekubu, Tebogo Mabolane and her co-accused Leshilo Mashau and Eugene Machete indicated to the court they would plead not guilty. Police pounced on Lekubu last year, December 29, at 2am. They found him in bed with another young woman. Monareng said this woman told police that Lekubu lured her on Facebook as well, promising to pay her R3 000 after sex. He said it was possible that this woman would have been killed as well, before getting the money.

A body was discovered in a pit latrine in the Brazzaville informal settlement. Monareng said that though the DNA and post-mortem reports were still outstanding, a pathologist informed him that the "badly decomposed" body had deep cuts around the neck region. Monareng told the court: "I'm convinced beyond doubt it is Seleka's body that Lekubu pointed out in the toilet."

The bail application was postponed to Wednesday, January 25, 2017.

"Switch off streetlights during day" – residents urge council

Residents across Atteridgeville have once again urged council workers to switch off streetlights around the area, saying that leaving them burning during the day is a waste of electricity and could increase their taxes and chances of load shedding during the winter.

Furious residents insist that many of these large streetlights are not only left burning throughout the day in informal settlements, but also all around Atteridgeville and Saulsville. Steven Masimale, of the Phomolong informal settlement, told the Tshwane Sun, "The council is both wasting electricity and the taxpayer's money by not making sure that these streetlights are switched off during the day. On May 9, there was load shedding in our area that caused us to go without electricity for many hours. It looks like, we are forced to pay exorbitant amounts of money for electricity that is being wasted."

"We have reported the matter of the streetlights several times, but the council is doing nothing about the matter. Many residents are living without any electricity around the country. Even Eskom is encouraging residents to save on electricity, but the council is doing the opposite," Masimale added, exasperated. "The council is always the one preaching about how people need to save electricity by switching off unused electrical appliances and so on, but now the council is ignoring their own instructions." "Were it houselights burning in some one's residence during the day, the council would have been quick to send that person a bill to pay for the electricity. But they don't care about the electricity that that they are wasting. If there is a problem with their streetlights, then they should send a technician to repair the faulty streetlights instead of simply ignoring this problem," an infuriated Steven continued.

"In other areas, like the Matlejoane Informal Settlement, there is no electricity whatsoever, but still electricity and the taxpayer's money is being wasted here." When the Tshwane Sun contacted Ward 71 Councillor, Mokopo Makola, regarding this issue, he was not available for comment.

Rearabilwe Community Development Project partners with Rod's Foundation

Rearabilwe Community Development Project is well-known within the community as a youth-based organisation that is trying to improve the lives of our youth with skills development, job placement, entrepreneurship and substance-abuse programmes. They partner with governmental and non-governmental structures to better the lives of our community, at large.

Rearabilwe Community Development Project has recently partnered with Rod's Foundation to improve music, sports, arts and culture within the community of Atteridgeville and Sausville. This programme was founded by Realeboga Rakgotho who is a local businessperson, a musician in her own right and a sports personality. This lady, who owns a few pharmacies in Tshwane, has a love for children and is determined to make a difference. Rakgotho told the Tshwane Sun that they have had a long-term relationship with Rearabilwe and have helped them in finding their feet within the community. "We also have played a role with school & community sports but we feel the community needs structured multi-sports activities that will lift them up to where we were in the 80's. We also have music, arts and culture programmes that are polarised and fragmented. What we need now is to have a programme that will bring all these programmes under one roof". Charles Malatji, centre manager at Rearabilwe stated that the partnership was to assist each other with programmes, systems and operations as Rod's Foundation has a functional system that they work with. "It excites us that we can partner with people who deal with such programmes as most of the youth we refer are in need of it. Some of our ex-users want to find themselves in an arts or culture environment and this will make it easier for us to refer them," he concluded. Rakgotho added that "whilst our programmes are done at some of our centres, we will also use Rearabilwe's centres in the afternoons between 3 and 6 in the evening." Our structured programmes are available on request and we will be having information brochures at our centre, as well as at the Rearabilwe centres.

Atteridgeville Rugby team calls for girls to join team

Since many girls are falling in love with the sport of rugby, the Atteridgeville rugby team is inviting girls who are interested in the sport to join them and be part of a team. Precious Dube, coach of the Atteridgeville Rugby team, told the Tshwane Sun that on May 18, last year, a female rugby team was introduced. "We managed to recruit eleven girls to join. We need another eleven girls to join the team, especially younger girls. The team is doing very well because they have already started playing games at Loftus Stadium and they are winning." We are even inviting those who have knowledge as rugby coaches, to come and join the team as we need more coaches to pass on their expertise to the players. We are not only inviting those who want to play; we are also inviting those who want to be part of the management board of the team. "We want to give our local girls the opportunity to play the sport, since in other areas around the country, women are already participating in the sport of rugby. We are also urging parents to persuade their children to take part in the sport so that we can produce outstanding players who will one day become national players." Dube concluded. Girls, who want to join the team are welcome to contact Dube on 071 927 0760

Members of the Atteridgeville Rugby Club.
