wol hide

This season we dove deeper into our values as a brand. Our years of sourcing efforts have culminated in new yarns sourced from regenerative farms, natural dyes and more domestic production. All in easy, timeless silhouettes with attention to details, texture and the craft of knitting.

These are all garments we want to wear over and over and hope you're as excited about them as we are.

At a time when the world feels heavy and uncertain, our path to being more thoughtful with our resources has never been more important.
