WHY TATAMI

Made by craftsmen in Kyushu, Japan with domestically grown igusa (Japanese rush).

Sweat absorbing.

The natural scent of igusa smells great and is proven to enhance concentration.

Deodorizing. Igusa absorbs bodily odor, foot odor and other unpleasant smells.

It can be used as a runner rug or room mat. Great for napping on a hot summer afternoon.

ABOUT IGUSA AND TATAMI

Tatami was first made in the 1500s by weaving igusa (rush). Unique to Japan, tatami mats were created with Japanese wisdom. They have been used for centuries throughout the country.

FACTS ABOUT IGUSA

The moisture absorbing ability of igusa is 2.5 times that of cotton.

The honey-comb like structure inside igusa enables it to absorb odors and harmful substances in air.

The scent of igusa contains phytoncide which contributes to its relaxing effect.

Flame retardant and stain proof.
