All measurements shown in size charts above are approximate body measurements.

Individual garment size charts may also be shown as an additional image/text on the product page.

Some of our 'Basics' styles have more generic sizing because of the stretch nature of the fabric and they will be referred to in product page description as e.g. S/M (10-12) or M/L (12-14). Most of our styles however fall into the above sizing chart.

How to Measure Yourself

When you measure yourself, do so in front of the mirror so you can ensure that the tape measure is horizontally positioned around your body. You should be able to put two fingers under the tape measure to accurately measure.
