THE MELANIN

B E R N A R D
CASSIERE

GENERALITIES ABOUT SKIN PIGMENTATION

« NORMAL » CONDITION:

The KERATONICYTES matureate by migration from the basal layer to the stratum corneum of the skin.

During this process, it catches MELANOSOMES, basically small sacks containing colored proteins named MELANIN. These proteins are produced by the melanocytes and cover the nucleus of the keratinocytes, giving them this dark color that, in normal conditions, is naturally erased at the surface of the skin during the cell renewal.
