Where The Women's Things Are

Matriark fosters feminism in Sag Harbor

This one's for the ladies! Opened earlier this summer by Patricia Assui Reed, Sag Harbor newcomer Matriark is a haven for all things created by the women-owned brands we know and love.

"Matriark is inspired by the power of women leaders — past, present, and future — and the positive impact fostered by female leadership," Reed told The Independent. "By supporting the businesses of only women-owned partners and organizations, Matriark's mission seeks to foster women's equality through commerce and community."

Among them, there's Amrose, Alix of Bohemia, Amaio, By Alona Jewelry, Chufy, Eugenia Kim, Le Monde Beryl Shoes, Daphne Verley, Flavia del Pra, BKLN Clay, Mary Ping, Maryan Nassir Zadeh, Marlette, Missoni, Sissa Brasil, Sold Out, and Tibi.

Sold Out x State of Escape neoprene tote, $335

Amrose crocheted sneakers are hand crocheted, exclusive to Matriark, $160

"Girl, Stop Apologizing" by Rachel Hollis, $25

Seven All Around neon orange ballet flats, made with upcycled fabric and designed by Heesung Choi, $175
