Palmero Launches Tension Relief Band To Expand Practitioner Support

Stratford, CT – Palmero Healthcare, a Hu-Friedy subsidiary, is pleased to introduce a tension relief band that works to enhance the physical and mental well-being of dental practitioners. CaRing Tension Relief Bands are a flexible and convenient way to soothe the sore, achy fingers that plague many professionals. The company hopes to eliminate finger fatigue and promote hand care maintenance which can improve overall stress management and well-being.

CaRing* Tension Relief Bands (Ref #3810) are designed to alleviate hand and finger discomfort that often results from repetitive work. Each band contains tiny triangular-shaped points that apply light pressure to the fingers. CaRing Bands were inspired from acupressure techniques that have been used on achy muscles for thousands of years. As the practitioner rolls the band from the tip of the finger to the metacarpophalangeal joint, the points on the band provide pressure that stimulates circulation and releases tension that has been building in the finger muscles throughout the day. The flexible and convenient design allows the band to be used in any setting.
