CARE in MEDICARE

For senior citizens, any operation—from the relatively simple removal of cataracts to the complexities of open-heart surgery—can be a traumatic experience. Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists (CRNAs) have a long history of ensuring patient safety and comfort by providing hands-on, watchful anesthesia care and staying at their patient’s side during the surgical procedure. That’s why every year millions of Medicare patients depend on CRNAs to bring them through surgery safe and sound.

When it comes to anesthesia, CRNAs put the “care” in Medicare.
