WORKING TOGETHER

Throughout Fesq & Company's 175-year trading history there has been the enduring theme of strong partnerships. Loyalty is a term we don't use lightly; we value relationships in decades, and it is one of the key reasons for the longevity of a business like ours. We don't take anything for granted and we understand that our trust and respect is earned through authenticity and genuine cooperation. Our role is to help our customers and wineries reach their goals in wine - this remains our number one priority.

Fesq & Company has always had a strong sense of identity and a belief in what we do well. This is a terrific testament to the consistency and reliability of our offering. It's a portfolio I'm continually proud to show and share.

David Fesq and Andrew Fay

This is the 20th edition of this generation of our portfolio, and our cover illustration of De Iuliis marks over 20 commissioned vineyard illustrations and maps. The first half of the new calendar year always brings excitement, marked by key launches from renowned names such as Moss Wood, Leeuwin Estate, Mount Pleasant and many more. In addition, we are thrilled to welcome new and exciting brands like Attwoods from Macedon. I look forward to sharing these with you over the coming months.

MARKTHOMAS

THE FINEST ALL ROUND GLASS

I was travelling through America in 2018, where I spent a couple of nights with an old friend. A noted wine collector, he introduced me to what he called, "the best wine glasses, full-stop". I kept marvelling at the fine, elegant stemware - with the main feature being a unique "double-bend", creating something like a combination of the austere, refined Zalto glass, and the classic, curvy shape of Riedel.

As you'd expect, these are hand-blown with the finest quality lead-free crystal, and therefore withstand clouding. These are made to order, so we are lucky to have access to them periodically.

I would encourage you to discover them, they are simply the finest glasses I have used in my career with wine.

BONDI LIQUOR CO.

Bringing spirits back into the Fesq & Company portfolio was not a decision considered lightly. In our friends at Bondi Liquor Co., we found a distiller who shares much the same philosophies about spirits as we do about wine.

Founded in 2020, they are the first distillery to be based in this iconic beachside suburb, producing a range of distinct and pristine spirits from a 200 litre copper-pot still. The guiding ethos is purity of ingredients and an authentic distillation process. The spirits are not over-complicated with a long list of ingredients, they are about quality of character using a grape-based ethanol, not grain. With a core range of 6 spirits, as well as limited releases and batched cocktails, the scope of what they are looking to do in the future is limitless.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Wines by region

It is still an accepted truth that South Australia is the cradle of the Australian wine industry. It accounts for a majority of the production of premium wine, and covers the regions that are synonymous with classic, fine Australian wine; Barossa Valley, McLaren Vale and Coonawarra.

Our offering from South Australia looks to represent all that is great about the state; classic, long-lived estates like Coriole, Tim Gramp and Parker, sitting alongside contemporaries including Mr. Riggs and Sons of Eden. Unique vineyards and remarkable stories can be found with producers like Barr-Eden Estate and Thistledown as well as new and exciting wines from labels like Dune and Brave Souls.

OUR OFFERING FROM SOUTH AUSTRALIA LOOKS TO REPRESENT ALL THAT IS GREAT ABOUT THE STATE.

BAROSSA

South Australia

Barossa continues to be the reference point many people use when they try to define Australian wine. In general, it is a warm continental climate that is perfect for ripening its hero variety of Shiraz, but it also has a number of sloping hills and traverse valleys that create cooler pockets, especially on the edges and in the north of the region.

Many of the most important and influential wineries of the last century have either started, or have extensive holdings, in the region. Like much of Australia, the last decade or so has seen the emergence of a new generation that sees the region's identity as being more fluid and complex than the traditional styles have promoted.

We believe we offer a true picture of the region via our established winery Sons of Eden, the distinctive property of Barr-Eden Estate, alongside the newer Brave Souls project.

PARKER ESTATE

ABBAY VINEYARD

Coonawarra, SA

Situated at the Southern end of Coonawarra's famed 'cigar strip' of terra rossa soils, Parker Estate's prime position places it in a viticultural 'holy trinity' of climate, location and soil.

Once the ocean floor, the ancient soils of the South-East have been created over millions of centuries. As geological activity caused land masses to rise, the ocean retreated westward, revealing the 'Limestone Coast' of today, and the distinctive rust-red soils over limestone that have come to define the wines of Coonawarra.

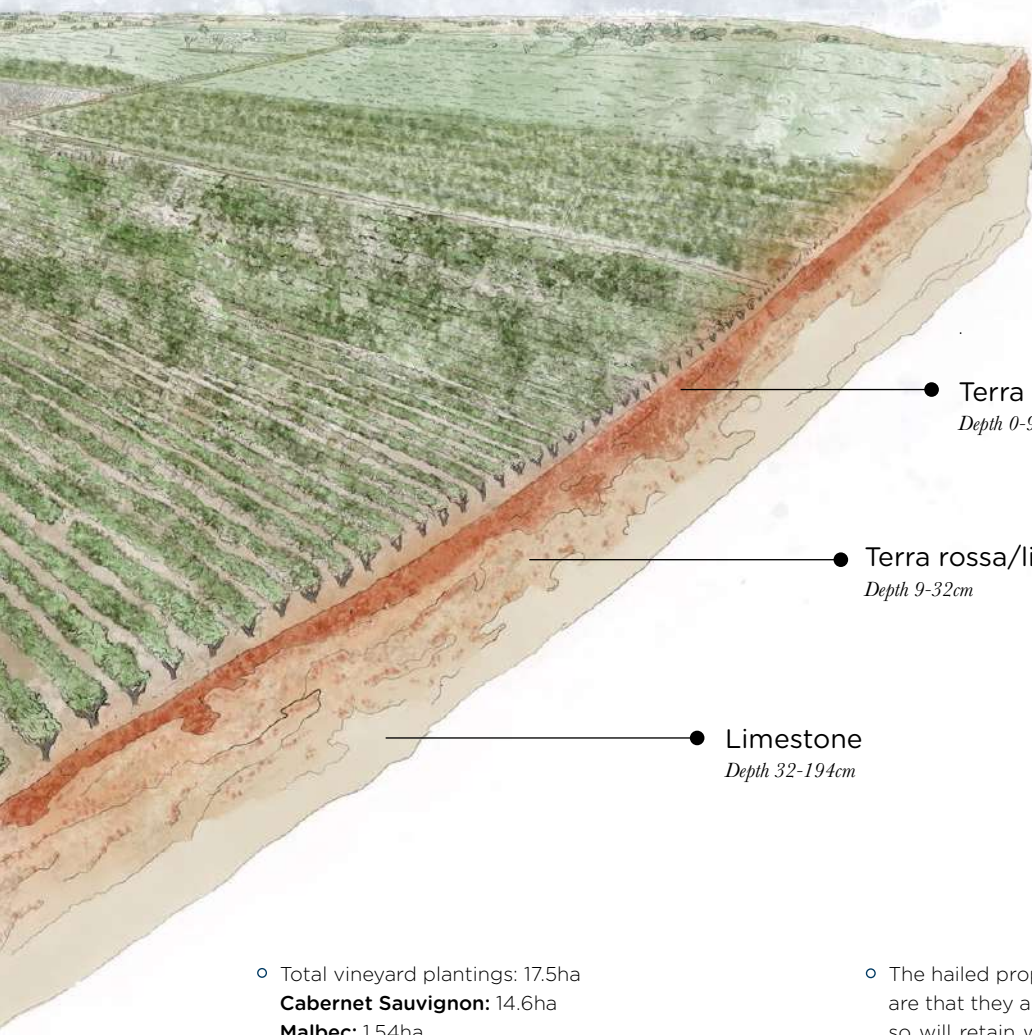

This geology and climatic conditions have led to the often-made comparison to Bordeaux, one that highlights the timeless, classic and elegant style of wines from Coonawarra, especially Cabernet Sauvignon, the 'hero' variety of the region.

60km to Southern Ocean

The Abbey Vineyard has a moderate maritime climate. Cold winters and warm summers with a mediterranean influence of breezes from the Southern Ocean that keep the fruit cool overnight.

The soil profile sees terra rossa clay over limestone, the latter which starts at varying depths between 9-194cm throughout the vineyard:

● Terra rossa aeolian clay
Depth 0-9cm

● Terra rossa/limestone
Depth 9-32cm

● Limestone
Depth 32-194cm

- Total vineyard plantings: 17.5ha
Cabernet Sauvignon: 14.6ha
Malbec: 1.54ha
Cabernet Franc: 1.04ha
Petit Verdot: 0.32ha
- All Cabernet Sauvignon plantings are Reynell selection - cuttings sourced from 19th century-planted vines at Reynella in 1985 and probably derived from the first 1837 imports of pre-phylloxera Cabernet Sauvignon taken from Bordeaux.
- The more shallow terra rossa layer has high nutrient content, namely iron oxide (gives its red colour), calcium (from limestone) & silica. The deeper limestone includes variable, complex, ancient layers of calcium carbonate.
- The hailed properties of limestone for grape-growing are that they are free-draining when wet, and porous, so will retain water in dry periods (a supplementary source of water). They are nutrient-rich, providing distinctive minerality to the wines.
- To conserve the integrity of the ancient soils, permanent grasses are sown to encourage nutrient recycling, pest control, organic matter production, and biological activity.
- Typically a very long and slow growing season (average 220-240 days) - ideal for Cabernet. Harvest usually starts in mid-April, which can often be up to 2 weeks after sites at the northern end of Coonawarra.

Barr-Eden Estate V NSW & QLD

Eden Valley, Barossa Valley, SA

BARR-EDEN ESTATE

Barr-Eden Estate is a storied piece of land situated at the crest of Mengler's Hill, one of the highest points of viticulture in Australia. Well-known grape-grower Joel Mattschoss first acquired fruit from the site, which sits atop the ancient goldfields of the Eden, in 2014, to produce the first small batch Love Over Gold wine with Frenchman Pierre-Henri Morel. After the passing of the estate's owner, Barossa icon, Bob McLean, in 2015, a venture began between the two, along with friends Michael Twelftree and Tim Hower, to become the new custodians of this special property of great pedigree.

Brave Souls

Barossa Valley, SA

Brave Souls was born as a project of new creative collaborations, with the vision towards making contemporary Barossa wines, high on drinkability and value. Made at the Sons of Eden winery by our good friends Corey and Simon; and with label art by Bruce Goold, of iconic Mambo brand fame, who generously agreed to visualise the tales of the "Brave Souls" involved in the shipwreck of the SS Admella off the coast of South Australia in 1859.

BRAVE SOULS

Coriole O V

McLaren Vale, SA

The Lloyd family founded Coriole in 1967, and are considered pioneers in the McLaren Vale region, and visionaries in the planting of Italian and French varieties. Long before it was fashionable, Mark Lloyd developed vineyards of Sangiovese, Piquepoul, Chenin Blanc, Nero d'Avola, and others, plus of course, Shiraz. They are considered one of the leading lights of the region.

Dune

O-V

McLaren Vale, SA

The next generation of the Lloyd family (Coriole) planting their flag in the Vale. A new project from brothers Duncan and Peter Lloyd, Dune Wines sees them step out from the shadow of Coriole wines. Sourcing fruit from a single vineyard in the Blewitt Springs sub-region of McLaren Vale. Organic-in-conversion, this sandy vineyard has been completely re-imagined since being purchased by the brothers in 2009. Planting and grafting over southern Mediterranean varietals has seen them create a unique range of blends alongside some classic and SO2-free Shiraz.

Mr. Riggs

McLaren Vale, SA

Mr. Riggs

Winemaker Ben (Mr.) Riggs follows the philosophy "iconic wines from iconic regions". Whether it's McLaren Vale Shiraz, Coonawarra Cabernet, or Clare Valley Riesling, his wines are expressing the essence of the vineyard and variety in a style that is big, rich and complex, but also with finesse, texture and elegance. In Ben's own words: "Think Ella Fitzgerald – bombastic and powerful with a huge vocal range, yet with purity of tone and a gentle sensibility when needed."

PARKER
ESTATE

Since its first release in 1988, the name Parker Estate has represented outstanding quality, longevity and elegance from the region. Based in the very southern end of the Terra Rossa strip, the wines have always embodied a fine, long-lived, classic style. The Hesketh family became the custodians of the vision for Parker in 2013, and have continued with these ideals. The wines offer an exceptional insight into why the Coonawarra region became famous for powerful yet delicious cabernet.

SONS OF EDEN

Winemaker Corey Ryan and Viticulturalist Simon Cowham are the 'Sons of Eden'. Each with over 25 vintages in Barossa, their wines are held in high regard for exceptional quality and value, consistently landing impressive ratings and success in the wine show circuit. Their dedication to sourcing the best fruit – focussing on full-flavoured Shiraz, Grenache and Mourvèdre from Barossa Valley, as well as Riesling from Eden Valley – is either from vineyards they manage directly or from loyal local growers. This careful selection of fruit along with skillful winemaking is the recipe for their “dark horse” reputation.

Thistledown is the vision of Master of Wine, Giles Cooke. Choosing to focus on the Grenache grape shows the belief he has in the variety. A certified member of Sustainable Winegrowing Australia, they have secured numerous rare old vines and unique vineyards for the future. Working with growers across McLaren Vale, Barossa Valley and Riverland, they craft elegant, fine, aromatic reds, many destined to showcase Grenache's charm as a single variety. Thistledown wines are made in small quantities in the Adelaide Hills.

VICTORIA

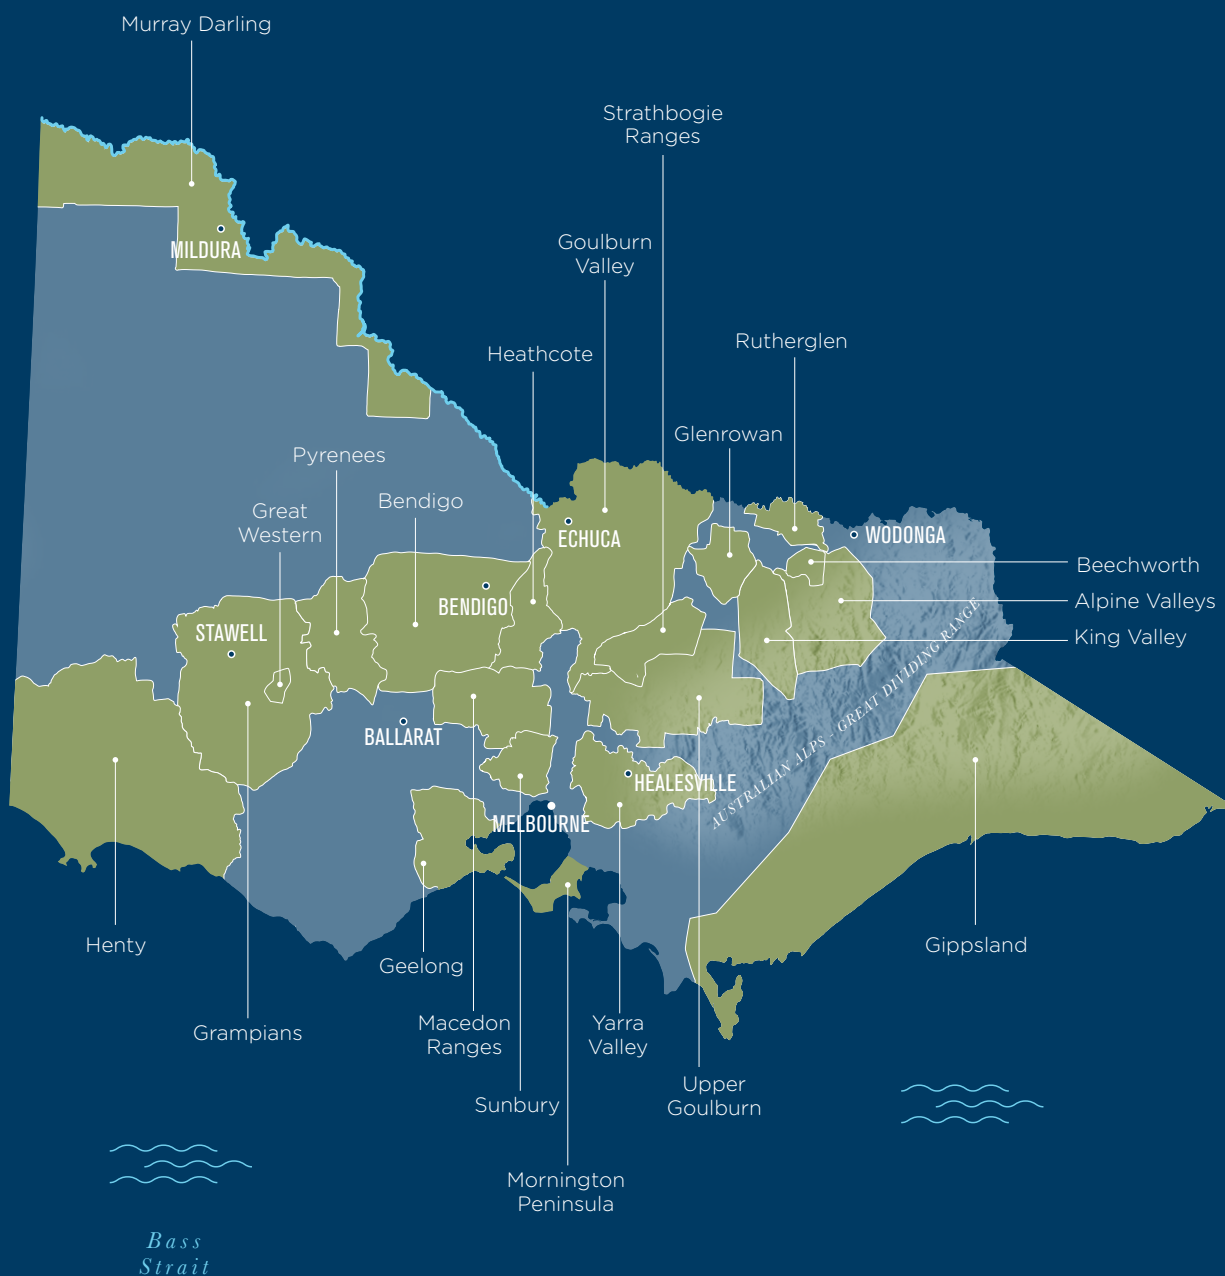

Wines by region

Victoria has a strong claim to the title for the most exciting wine state in recent years.

The consumer trends that have driven the growth of varieties like Pinot Noir and Pinot Gris, as well as distinctly styled Chardonnays, have come from Victoria.

It feels like a state that is utilising its diversity for quality like never before; fine Yarra Valley Pinot Noir and Chardonnay, as well as the growth of Mornington as an icon region. Continued acclaim for areas like Macedon, Geelong and Gippsland, plus the classic, central areas ranging from the Grampians to Heathcote.

Alex Byrne Wines v

Multi-regional, VIC

:BYRNE

Alex Byrne is a young winemaker with experience in Burgundy, South America and Australia. Having made wine under his eponymous Byrne Wines label since 2011, he focuses on single vineyard wines from Ballarat. Elegant and complex Chardonnay and Pinot Noir highlight the quality of their origins and the talents of the winemaker. Expanding his creative and playful side, Alex also partnered with friends to develop the Liquid Rock'n'Roll range of wines from regional Victoria, as well as an Urban Winery project in Melbourne, Noisy Ritual.

What started as a lark when Alex Byrne and Cam Nicol found an old concrete fermenter in the basement of Cam's rented house, has turned into something much bigger: a truly unique urban winery in Melbourne. Working out of their Brunswick Urban Winery, Alex and Cam now produce wines from a number of Victorian regions. Focussing on natural ferments, and lo-fi winemaking, the project has grown into something all encompassing, with a bar and restaurant attached to the winery. The wines are fun, and easy drinking, not made for the cellar but rather for youthful drinking any day of the week.

Billy Button v

Alpine Valleys, VIC

Jo Marsh is not a box ticker. She embraces every task with great expectation and seeks out the path less travelled. With a focus on alternate varietals, Jo produces an astounding array of wines, which, including cellar door only wines, comprises over 20 different varietals, some in minuscule quantities. Working closely with local growers, Jo has helped to breathe new life into this tiny wine region, and shine a light on the breadth and depth of the grape varietal variation that we have in Australia. Jo follows no rule book, she believes in doing what's best for the wine, polishing and perfecting, highlighting the fruit and sculpting the palate so the wine flows through the mouth with texture and interest.

The beautiful label art is the 'Shy Susan' (Tetralthea gunnii); a critically endangered wildflower endemic to a tiny part of Tasmania. VICTORIA

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Wines by region

For a state that came to viticulture relatively late, Western Australia has played an outsized role in the emergence of fine wine in Australia.

We must start with Margaret River. Although it came to prominence no more than 40 years ago, it is firmly entrenched in the perception of quality, prestige and scarcity.

When Mark Fesq first started representing Mike Peterkin's Pierro label in 1988, it was to be the first of his bottles sold on the east coast. Not long after, we began a relationship with two other great, family businesses, Leeuwin Estate and Moss Wood (1993 and 1989).

THESE ARE ESTATES OF INCREDIBLE QUALITY AND INFLUENCE, HELMED BY FAMILIES THAT HAVE VISION AND THE DEEPEST COMMITMENT TO THE REGION.

MARGARET RIVER

Western Australia

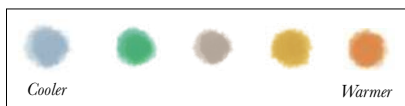

The Margaret River region is a maritime influenced climate made up of mostly boutique sized wineries. It produces a scant 3% of the wine in Australia, but makes up a very significant portion of the premium production.

Being over 100km long, and 30km wide, it has a broad range of mesoclimates that avoid easy characterisation. Many of the famed whites come from the centre and south, whilst cabernet tends to ripen earlier in the north. That said, many of the iconic Chardonnays, such as Pierro and Moss Wood, come from Wilyabrup, whilst the Cabernet of Wallcliffe is certainly considered as fine as any other part of the region.

There has recently been a passionate discussion around whether to push sub-regionality more assertively, particularly from a group of wineries in Wilyabrup. It is a healthy debate that will likely lead to ongoing research into the differences within the region.

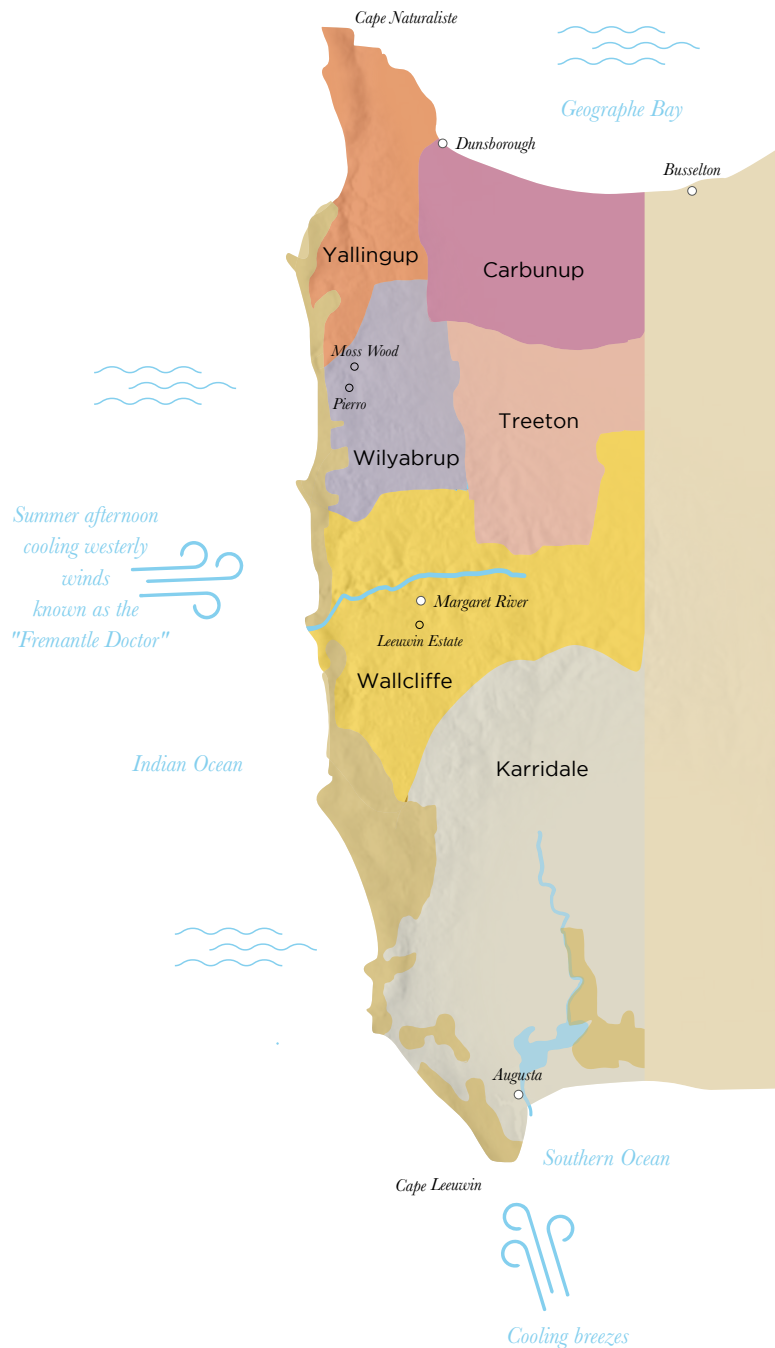

Consistent quality: Margaret River's sustained vintage success

It has become cliché to speak of Margaret River's long string of excellent vintages, but it does speak to the region's optimal climatic conditions – the moderating ocean breezes on three sides, abundant sunshine, good rainfall that falls mostly in winter and low diurnal and seasonal temperature variation that provides an evenness of warmth. In the past decade or more, extraordinary quality has been a consistent charm; a reliable and envious reputation. To take a snapshot of the past five vintages; some slightly cooler and wetter ('21 possibly impacted by La Nina on the East coast), others being marginally warmer and drier; a 'classic' season has emerged of a mild-to-warm West Coast Indian Summer extending harvest into April. Commentary on yields - bird pressure and Marri flowering - are nearly always a factor and can have significant impact on the final harvest size (notably in '20). Overall however, it's considered the most stable growing conditions of any in Australia.

Region	2023	2022	2021	2020	2019
Margaret River	9	9	8	9	8

Our vintage charts speak to the seasonal variations of the region overall. Tasting notes should be consulted for specific wine notes and localised conditions. Commentary on regional yields may not be an indication of a particular volume of a single wine as wineries manage their vineyard practices according to their own philosophies.*

Leeuwin Estate ^{NSW} Margaret River, WA

Few stories can be told about modern Australian wine without mentioning the amazing rise of Margaret River, and Leeuwin Estate as a pioneer. Founded by Tricia and Denis Horgan in 1979, it is the star estate of Margaret River's southern area; with a particular pedigree in its famed Chardonnay, but also relatively recent acclaim for Cabernet and Shiraz.

NEW SOUTH WALES

Wines by region

New South Wales is the oldest wine producing state in Australia, with the Hunter Valley being Sydney's "backyard" region.

Always unique, the specialties of Semillon, Verdelho and fine, medium-bodied Shiraz have made Hunter an idiosyncratic region, and all the more special for it. The icon of Mount Pleasant – its place in Australian wine history and the rare, ancestral vines on the estate – is a jewel in the industry. Equally compelling, the new guard that has emerged in recent years, focussed intently on quality and innovation, as well as preserving the distinct character of the Hunter. A leader among them is Mike De Iuliis, his wines are as respectful of the past as they are modern and contemporary.

De Iuliis

Hunter Valley, NSW

Mike De Iuliis, and the namesake winery his parents founded, has been considered one of the “new guard” of Hunter Valley excellence. With exceptional vineyard holdings and a modern winery, Mike has made De Iuliis one of the most highly regarded wineries in the region. The wines are classic yet contemporary: age-worthy, elegant, refined and pure.

Mount Pleasant

Hunter Valley, NSW

The famed estate of Mount Pleasant has a well-storied past, founded by the visionary of Australian wine, Maurice O'Shea. It includes plantings of ancestral vines of 1880, as well as Australia's oldest mother vine Pinot Noir planted in 1921 by O'Shea himself. It is the home of some of the first fine wines of Australia, and with just five winemakers over its 100-year history, it has maintained its status as a benchmark of the Hunter classics, Shiraz and Semillon.

DE IULIIS LOVEDALE ROAD VINEYARD

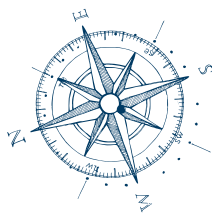

Hunter Valley, NSW

The De Iuliis family purchased a 40-acre cattle grazing property on the Hunter Valley's famed Lovedale Road in 1987. Inspired by their origins in Abruzzo, Italy, their vision was always to make wine, so they spent a few years restoring the land and then began to plant vines, starting with the classic Hunter heroes: Semillon, Chardonnay, Shiraz, Merlot and Verdelho. Since then, the 'new guard' in Mike De Iuliis has brought the winery into a new era, planting new varietals and introducing innovative practices. It's a vineyard that tells the story of a passionate family business, built from the ground up and evolving over time.

The LDR Vineyard is a heavy clay soil throughout. It is farmed utilising regenerative agricultural techniques such as the use of BioChar. Lovedale as a subregion is quite sheltered from harsh weather events and the thick tree line around the vineyard also assists with this.

0.7 ha of Touriga Nacional was planted in 2010. Along with Tempranillo and Montepulciano, these are Mediterranean varieties suited to the Hunter climate with thick skins that have a strong resistance to disease and drought.

3 ha of Shiraz planted in 1991 that came from cuttings of the Mount Pleasant Old Hill Vineyard. They are planted on the northern slope to take advantage of full sun exposure and optimise flavour ripeness. The De Iuliis LDR Shiraz is a blend of the best barrels selected from the various Shiraz blocks and clones throughout the vineyard.

1.5 ha McWilliams heritage Shiraz clone first planted in the Hunter in 1920, grafted in 2018.

0.4 ha of Tempranillo was transplanted here from another vineyard in 2018. Transplanting is not common practice in viticulture, and Mike and Joss were told it would fail, but now they are harvesting sensational fruit from these monstrously tall vines each season.

2.9 ha of Chardonnay was planted in 1990 in east-west rows for the canopy to provide effective shade in the growing season.

1.5 ha of McWilliams heritage Shiraz clone was first planted in the Hunter in 1920 and was grafted here in 2018.

3.2 ha of Semillon was planted in 1990. The heavy clay soil produces vibrant and aromatic, approachable, young Semillon.

0.4 ha of Steven Shiraz clone was first planted in 1968 and grafted here in 2010. De luliis purchased the Steven Vineyard in 2013 after leasing it for a number of years.

0.8 ha of Montepulciano was planted in 2014 as a homage to the De luliis family origins in Abruzzo where it is the hero native red variety of the region.

TASMANIA

Wines by region

Tasmania has seen perhaps the most rapid transformation of any state in the industry in recent years. Plantings now cover almost twice the area they did a decade ago.

Tasmania's reputation on the world stage, particularly in the premium sparkling category, has seen an equally quick ascension. This has been driven by a number of reasons, but chief among them are recent consumer trends towards sparkling wines, Pinot Noir and aromatic whites, especially Pinot Gris. Today we see Tasmania as one of the few parts of Australia where demand outstrips supply, cementing its status as a cool-climate, premium designation. In the pursuit of balance and expression of terroir, Tasmania is a leading light.

Bream Creek

Tasmania

The Bream Creek vineyard was planted in 1974 by Fred Peacock. One of the first commercial vineyards established in the Apple Isle state, it has long been considered one of the very best sites in Eastern Tasmania. Fred's premium cool-climate wines are concentrated and long, thanks to the mature vines and low yields.

Tasmania

Derwent Estate, planted on the historic Mt. Nassau property just north of Hobart, has been in the same family since 1913. With three generations involved in the family business today, this genuine cool climate site on north-facing, Calcareous soil slopes has gained a reputation for consistent, outstanding quality fruit, most notably Pinot Noir, Chardonnay and Riesling. They approach the vineyard with a gentle management philosophy; and a purpose-built winery completed in 2013 made with straw bales cleverly retains the ideal natural ground temperature for the production and maturation of the wines.

BREAM CREEK VINEYARD

Marion Bay, TAS

Bream Creek Vineyard was planted in 1974 on Tasmania's East Coast in the Bream Creek district. Being the oldest commercial vineyard on Tassie's East Coast, this vineyard has seen enormous changes in not only vineyard systems but also due to the warming climate.

- o The original Pinot Noir plantings date back to 1974.
- o The “old block” of Riesling vines were planted in 1974 when the climate was much cooler, so in line with the theory of the day the vines are very close to the ground to avoid the cooler sea breezes. As their roots are so deep now, this old Riesling block no longer needs irrigating.
- o Bream Creek Vineyard is planted on a north easterly facing slope and receives the first rays of the sun to warm the soil. With its east to north east aspect, the vineyard is also sheltered from the strongest prevailing winds which normally blow from the westerly quarter.
- o Being close to the sea, Bream Creek Vineyard avoids the heavier rains due to its low altitude, although on very rare occasions winter snow has fallen in the vineyard.
- o Bream Creek Vineyard has quite an extensive range of varieties including Riesling, Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc - and the rare northern German grapevine, Schönburger. The vineyard has the ability to not only produce elegant sparkling wines but also stunning Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. Due to the milder climate the wines benefit from the extended slow ripening conditions.

NEW ZEALAND

Wines by region

What do you say about this remarkable land that hasn't been said before? It's a cliché by now to reference the jaw-dropping beauty, pristine condition and near ideal state of the landscape. It's no surprise, at least in retrospect, that New Zealand took to wine late, yet over-achieved in just about every area on the world stage.

It starts with, and to a certain extent finishes with, Sauvignon Blanc from Marlborough. This is the way almost every wine drinker touches New Zealand, and visiting the region shows you how serious a business it is.

We are proud to offer a range of wines from Marlborough which represent the diversity that is often overlooked. Seresin is one of the benchmarks for super-premium, biodynamic Sauvignon and Pinot Noir, while Skipjack offers the classic, everyday nature that made the region famous.

The southern segment of the South Island is where things start to differ substantially from Marlborough, with Pinot Noir growing in prominence, and aromatics like Riesling dominating the whites. Pegasus Bay is a pioneer of the North Canterbury region, and considered the shining light, especially for Pinot Noir. Peregrine in Central Otago is a rigorously managed estate in one of the most esteemed Pinot Noir -producing regions in the world.

IT'S NO SURPRISE, AT LEAST IN RETROSPECT, THAT NEW ZEALAND TOOK

OVER-ACHIEVED IN JUST ABOUT EVERY AREA ON THE WORLD
STAGE.

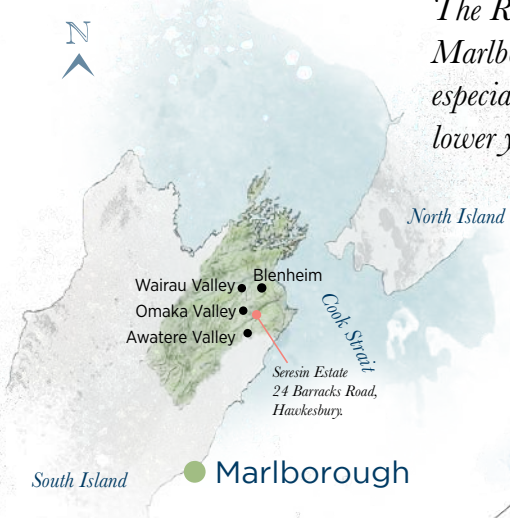

SERESIN RAUPO CREEK VINEYARD

Marlborough, NZ

The Raupo Creek vineyard is planted in the southern valleys of the Omaka Valley in Marlborough. This clay rich area is considered the finest in the region for Pinot Noir, especially, but also for concentrated flavours in the white bottlings - producing much lower yields than elsewhere in the region.

Osip Hill (highest point 150m). Gentle rolling hills provide different soils and aspects, contributing to a variety of characteristics in the fruit.

The hills have a heavier clay soil, whereas the flats (where the whites tend to be planted) are finer, sandy and silt loams with slightly less clay content.

Organics and Biodynamics

Olive groves and cover crops are sown with a mix of clovers, wild flowers and tap root species to improve soil structure, moisture retention and encourage the benefits of insects and overall biodiversity.

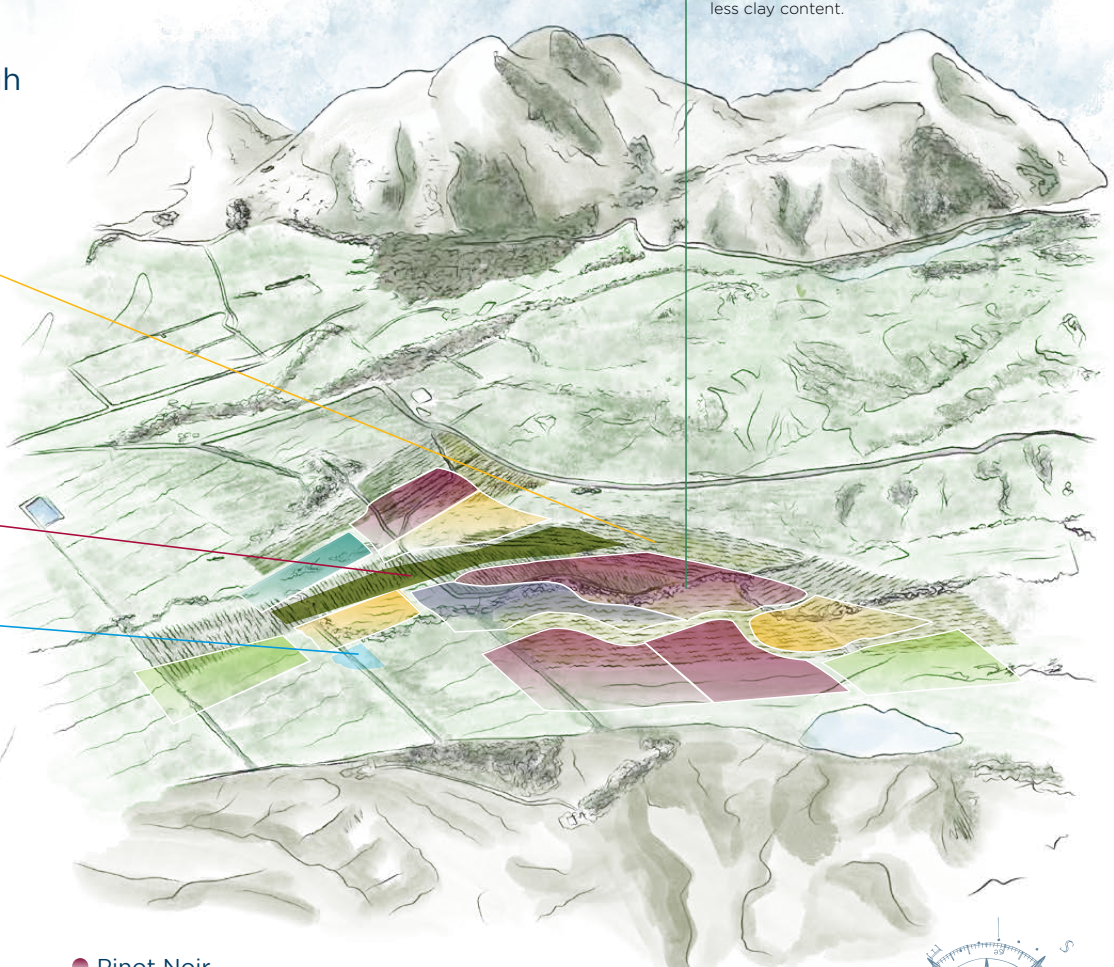

Wild yeasts are used as well as fermenting portions separately to give pure expressions of the vineyard that can then be used creatively in the blending process.

Pasture land for livestock (cows, sheep and goats) to produce their own manure and other biodynamic preparations.

Vegetable, fruit gardens and biodynamic preparation area for feeding their soils, plants and animals. As well as composts and mulches, biodynamic preparations made on the farm include chamomile flower heads, stinging nettle tea leaves, oak bark and dandelion flower heads.

FRANCE

Wines by region

France can be considered the spiritual birthplace of wine, with records dating back at least 2,600 years, showing that the country's heritage has always involved wine. Grape growing is part of the fabric that makes France so unique for many reasons; history, terroir, the noble grapes, famous vineyard sites and an expansive land of incredible regions.

What we want to bring home to Australia for your vinous enjoyment are well-regarded producers who have proven the test of time as well as share a little more of what we discover in France - the revolution of the new and young.

Our producers are, where possible, artisans curating their own wines from unique vineyards.

BURGUNDY

France

Oscillate Wildly: the Burgundy Experience

Historically, the great challenge in achieving adequate ripeness has been somewhat of a hallmark of Burgundy and so it is often tagged with “good” and “bad” vintages. But the truth is always more complex, we know. Climate change is evolving the “norm” of conditions. In fairly close succession, Burgundy experienced the most severe frost in a generation in 2016, and then one of the hottest and driest summers on record in 2018. ‘18, ‘19 and ‘20 saw a string of warm seasons ideal for ripening, but heat spikes and dry conditions (‘19) bring their own challenges. ‘21 is considered a return to a ‘classic’, cooler Burgundy vintage, and followed by a warmer ‘22. The ability to adapt and stay on one’s toes is ever the test for winemakers.

Auvigue O·V Mâcon, France

The name 'Auvigue' was already known in 1629 in the vineyards of Beaujolais and Mâconnais. Today, the grapes come from family estates covering 6 hectares including 2 that have been organically farmed for over 20 years in the Mâcon-Soltré and Pouilly-Fuissé appellations. To allow each parcel to present the unique microclimates, Jean-Pierre and Michel Auvigue always adapt the vinification process to the requirement of each plot. The wines are only lightly filtered before being bottled to retain all the elements required for the development of their true Burgundian nature.

Husband and wife, Florence Lamy and Sebastien Caillat, first produced bottles from the 2011 vintage, tending vines they were offered by their elderly neighbours. Despite a relatively recent start, neither were new to the business of Burgundy, tending the land or the pursuit of a job well done. It is no exaggeration to suggest these should be at the top of every white Burgundy lover's wish list.

SANCERRE

Claude Riffault O V BD*

Sancerre, France

Stéphane Riffault is a winemaker to keep an eye on: shy in nature, he is diligent in nurturing the most expressive wines he can. After studying viticulture and oenology in Beaune, he came back to the Loire and took over his parent's domaine in the late 2000s. Since his return to the quiet village of Sury-en-Vaux, Stéphane has been focussing on the individuality of each lieu-dit, seeking to obtain the most precise wines that are directly linked to their origin as possible. Where his father, Claude, had always produced a single Sancerre, Stéphane releases five or more each vintage. He says, "my early years weren't easy, it has taken me years to understand each parcel."

GERMANY

Wines by region

In many ways, Germany is the most classic of the European wine countries - it is contained by climatic conditions, its unique history and love of the Riesling grape, but, in the last decade, diverse voices have grown.

Juliane Eller | JuWel
Rheinhessen, Germany

Juliane Eller released her first wines in 2013 and they basically sold out right away. At just 23 she took over her parents' winery after finishing her oenology degree at the renowned university in Geisenheim, and turned the entire winery upside down - in the best possible way. Her linear, clean and modern style is as sharp and beautiful as the diamonds on her labels - a reference to the evolution of a raw diamond (grapes) to a jewel (wine).

ITALY

Wines by region

Italy is a wine producing country that covers a dizzying range of styles, varieties and lifestyle options. When we set about finding partners in the country, we started with the basics, or at least the two grapes that arguably define the country - Nebbiolo and Sangiovese. Add to those Prosecco, and you have most people's view of Italy, (of which there's nothing wrong at all).

BAROLO

Luigi Vico o v

Serralunga, Barolo, Italy

Luigi Vico's wines come from his family-heirloom vineyard in Serralunga. With his ancestors having farmed the site, providing fruit for other estates since the early 1900s, Luigi decided to return to making wines under the Vico name. Assisted by famed neighbour, Davide Rosso, these wines are classic, yet precise and approachable. They are both new and entirely timeless. These bottlings have been a joy to discover.

Renato Corino o v

La Morra, Barolo, Italy

RENATO CORINO

After 20 years together, Renato Corino and his brother Giuliano decided to split their family's renowned Barolo estate in 2005, allowing each to forge their own path under different labels. Renato's 8 hectare share in La Morra is mostly Nebbiolo along with some Barbera and Dolcetto. After going solo, Renato built a brand new state-of-the-art winery to steer production in the same perfectionist fashion that he runs his vineyards. The two brothers are still close and having always worked together as a team, are both producing classic and distinctive La Morra Barolo from the famed Corino sites. Renato's son, Stefano, is also now working alongside his father in crafting these distinguished wines, including the famed Rocche dell'Annunziata cru.

Bella Modella O V

Veneto & Central Italy

The stylish packaging of the Bella Modella wines is a butterfly-inspired homage to all that is beautifully formed in nature or the man-made world. The Modella Prosecco Spumante comes from the low-yielding hillside vineyards of the Prosecco DOC in northeast Italy. It is a Brut (dry) style made from the Glera grape, and goes through a longer secondary fermentation of three months. This is a crisp, refreshing style with substance and balance. The Bella Modella 'La Farfalla' Pinot Grigio comes from the Colline Teatine region of Abruzzo in central Italy where the vineyards are situated on the slopes of the Maiella massif. The fruit is hand-picked and no oak treatment leaves this Pinot Grigio clean, bright, smooth and refreshing.

Chiara Condello O V

Emilia-Romagna, Italy

CHIARA CONDELLO

Chiara Condello is proving a popular name among Michelin restaurant lists in France with her delicate and finely perfumed Sangiovese Piccolo wines. She grew up in the town of Predappio right near the resort and winery of Condé, owned by her father Francesco. The project under her own name, created with beautifully modern labels, is from a small parcel of land she chose from her father's estate, close to a forest where the vines are deeply rooted in calcareous-clay soil, prime for Sangiovese. Chiara is driven by a deep respect for the land and has followed the path of organic viticulture and handcrafting her wines with indigenous yeasts, gravity-fed fermentation tanks and without filtration.

Mura Mura O V BD

Piemonte, Italy

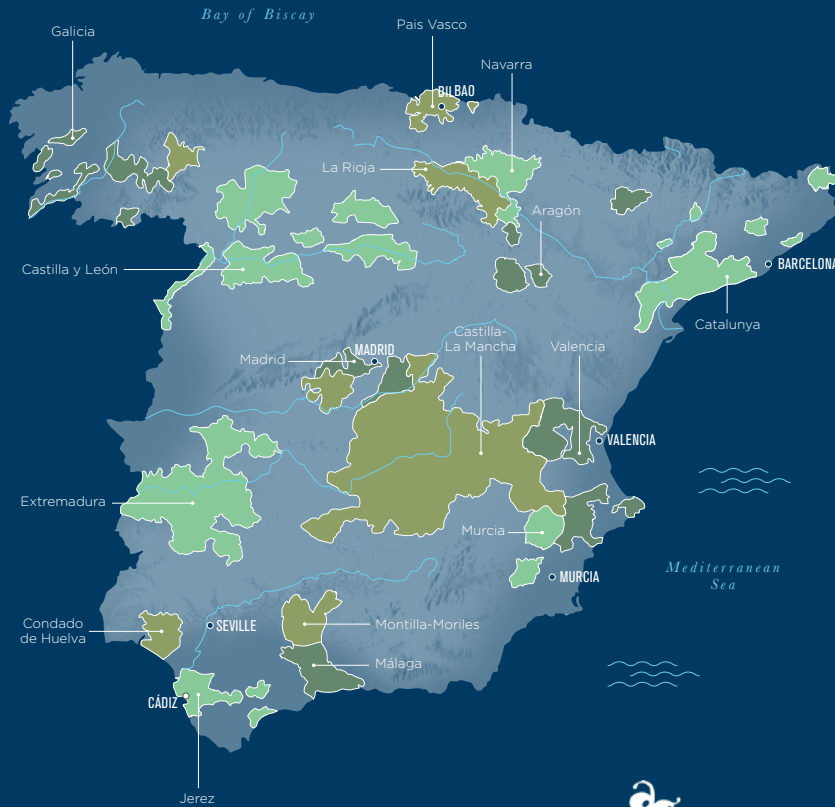

Best friends Guido Martinetti and Federico Grom were the founders of the international artisan gelato business, Gelaterie GROM. In 2008 they bought land in Costigliole d'Asti, where initially, the property was almost entirely dedicated to the production of fruit, in particular, apricots, white figs, pears and peaches - but the boundaries of the property have been expanded over the years to a total of 30ha, 10 of which are planted with vines, and a further 4ha in the Barbaresco DOCG and 1ha in Barolo DOCG. As was their vision and philosophy with gelato, their venture in wine is about the finest raw ingredients, authenticity and the highest quality end product. Their focus is on their three cru wines of Barbaresco.

SPAIN

Wines by region

Azul Y Garanza

Navarra & Catalunya Spain

Three winemakers, four labels across two regions of Spain, producing modern and contemporary organic wines. A Co-Op of sorts, Azul Y Garanza is a collective project from winemakers Dani Nogué Sánchez, and siblings Maria and Fernando Barrena Belzunegui. Restoring forgotten or neglected landscapes, they are regenerating vineyards with certified organic practices and encouraging biodiversity through the planting of native aromatic shrubs, and fruit trees. The winemaking uses only natural ferments, lots of skin-contact, amphoras, and low, if any SO2 additions at bottling.

Azul Y Garanza is the 'home' project with vineyards based where the winery is in Bardenas Reales, Navarra. Sourcing fruit from old (over 100 y/o), previously abandoned vines spread over a number of plots the wines are based on Garnacha and Garnacha Blanca, with smaller production of Graciano and other varietals.

Entre Vinyes are wines from Penedes in Catalunya, this is Maria's project restoring an old family vineyard in the Foix Natural Park. With an average vine age of 60 y/o they grow indigenous varietals Xarel.lo Blanco & Vermell, and Parellada.

DIT Cellars source fruit from Sierra de LLeberia Natural Park in Montsant, where Dani first fell in love with vineyards and wines. Focusing on Garnatxa and Samso (either Carignan, or Cinsault) from vines up to 75 y/o.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

Cottenham Services Pty Ltd
administration provider for Fesq & Company

CHANGE OF PARTICULARS

The Customer shall give 7 days' notice to Cottenham of any change in the name of any of its principals, its trading name, its licensee, its shareholders or (if the Customer is a company) its directors. The Customer shall indemnify Cottenham against any loss or damage incurred by Cottenham as a result of the Customer's failure to notify Cottenham of any changes of these particulars.

CLAIMS

All goods will be at the Customer's risk upon delivery

- if F.I.S. transaction to the Customer's premises
- if F.O.B. transaction to the Customer's carrier

In order to recognise a claim for damage or loss during transport by Cottenham's carriers, Cottenham must be notified at the time of delivery. Claims of any other nature will not be accepted unless made within 24 hours of delivery. Please note, we aren't liable for stock damage caused by your staff or customers on your premises.

CREDIT NOTE POLICY

We credit products which can be shown to be defective upon delivery from us. Please do not ask us to credit wines you have cellared yourself and find to be out of condition when opened, nor for bottles broken on your premises. We will credit bottles used for staff training if the training was arranged with us beforehand.

DELIVERY

Prices quoted do not include delivery. Customers can pick up orders at our warehouse or accept a delivery charge on invoice. Cottenham shall not be responsible nor accept liability for delay or non-delivery of the goods and if in any circumstances late delivery is tendered by Cottenham, the Customer shall accept and pay for the goods when tendered. Deliveries required to be made to a residential address will also incur an extra charge. Please notify your sales representative or customer service agent of any permanent delivery instructions or requirements. Ad hoc delivery instructions will be complied with where possible. Our drivers are required to deliver 'to the door' of your premises. They may assist further at their own discretion and without placing their own safety at risk. A representative of your Company must sign for all deliveries. Your signature and/or photo is our proof of full delivery. Please check the goods with our driver carefully before signing for accuracy and condition.

GENERAL

Irrespective of any terms or conditions contained in the Customer's order, and irrespective of the Customer not reading Cottenham' Terms and Conditions of Sale, acceptance (by retaining the Goods or any other method) of the Goods ordered by the Customer will be conclusive acceptance of Cottenham's Terms and Conditions of Sale.

These Terms and Conditions of Sale may only be changed either by a written agreement signed by both the Customer and Cottenham or by Cottenham noting an amendment to these Terms and Conditions of Sale on the company's website or in the company's updated price lists. Any failure by the company to insist on strict compliance with any term of these Terms and Conditions of Sale or any delay by the company in exercising its rights under these Terms and Conditions of Sale will not constitute a variation or waiver of any term of these Terms and Conditions of Sale or any right available to the company. These Terms and Conditions of Sale will be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws in force in the State of New South Wales, Queensland and Victoria, Australia, and the company and the Customer submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of those States.

The proceeds of sale of any goods shall be kept in a separate account and shall not be mixed with any other monies.

At any time after giving twenty four hours written notice to the Customer, Cottenham shall be entitled to enter upon the Customer's premises during normal working hours to inspect the Goods. The Goods shall be stored separately and in a manner to enable them to be identified and cross-referenced to particular invoices. If payment for the Goods is not made by the Customer to Cottenham within seven days of the due date the Customer shall deliver the Goods to Cottenham on demand. In the event that the Customer does not comply with the demand within twenty four hours of receipt, Cottenham shall be entitled without liability in trespass or otherwise to enter onto the Customer's premises at any time and to do all such things necessary in order to take possession of the Goods and remove the Goods from the premises.

In the event that the Customer cannot prove that specific goods relate to invoices for which Cottenham has already been paid, Cottenham shall be entitled to assume that all stock in the premises supplied by Cottenham relates to invoices that are unpaid by the Customer.

PAYMENT

Payment to Cottenham shall be made prior to dispatch of goods to Customer unless the Customer completes Cottenham's Application for credit, whereupon full payment for all invoiced items shall be made by the 14th day of the month which immediately follows the month in which the goods have been delivered to the Customer. Cheques and payments shall be made payable to Cottenham. Payments by cheque shall not be deemed made until the cheques have cleared.
