

Unuseable Logos

Below is an example of a poor resolution logo. It looks ok at it's intended size, but becomes more pixelated as the size increases. On our hats, logos are commonly sized between 1.5" and 4" depending on the shape. If the logo does not have suitable resolution at that size, we will likely not be able to use it.

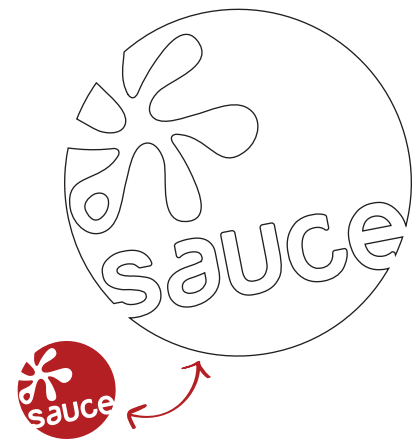

Useable Logos

Above is a .png logo with suitable resolution at a hat-appropriate size. It also has a transparent background. Depending on the complexity of the logo there may be color limitations.

Above is a .jpeg logo with suitable resolution at a hat-appropriate size. It has a white background, which can be limiting, but typically works. Depending on the complexity of the logo there may be color limitations.

Above is a vector logo. It is made up of outlines, rather than pixels. It maintains crisp lines no matter how big or small it is. The color can also be changed easily.

Questions? Please feel free to send us the logos you have access to and we'll let you know if we can work with them or not.
