OUR 3-STEP BUSINESS ENERGY ELEVATION PROCESS

1

We reduce the negative impact of electromagnetic fields (EMFs) with unique devices called Rejuvenizers.®

EMFs are generated by indoor electrical wiring lining the walls around us and all electrical and electronic equipment. Such equipment includes: computers, printers, copiers, fax machines, refrigerators, coffee machines, and microwave ovens. Other sources of disturbance include television and radio waves transmitted from overhead satellites, cell phone and microwave tower transmissions, and the latest addition to this toxic “soup,” the ever-expanding wireless internet (WIFI).

Scientific research has shown that EMFs negatively impact our physical health by raising the level of certain stress-inducing hormones and chemicals, resulting in eventual immune system dysfunction or failure.

We clear residual negativity that is adversely affecting a space. This has a draining effect on both employees and customers at an unconscious level. Negative energy is often left behind by:

- Agitated workers who constructed the building or initially set up the space
- Businesses that previously occupied the current workspace
- Emotional disturbances between people that have taken place within that space

This type of negative energy coagulates and forms “pockets” of negativity that stay in the environment, even though those people or situations may be long gone. These pockets of negativity adversely affect all those who pass through or work within them and can cause ongoing depression, discomfort, or agitation.

We clear all negativity from the “collective consciousness” of the business. The collective consciousness is composed of all the collective thoughts, feelings, and energies of everyone who has ever participated in the business, at any level. This would include owners, managers, employees, and customers—past and present.

Over time, all businesses get clogged with the collective negative feelings people have at work—anger, frustration, unhappiness, blame, etc. These feelings continually flow into the business consciousness, making it increasingly difficult for the business to be successful and sustain a life-supporting atmosphere.

Clearing the consciousness of the business will open doors to greater success, achievement of company goals, and a more peaceful, harmonious work environment.
