ANH SUNDSTROM

After mastering the on-duty look while working as a marketing director in San Francisco, Anh Sundstrom launched 9to5Chic (9to5chic.com) in 2010 as an ode to the modern working woman. The Bay Area blogger—voted the city's best-dressed denizen in the San Francisco Chronicle—has since garnered a loyal fan base for her tastefully tailored day-to-night ensembles, and she's partnered with the likes of Bergdorf Goodman and Tory Burch. Here, the Tiburon resident and mother of one shows us around downtown San Francisco, where you might find her on her time off.

- MM.LaFleur in Union Square for classic, versatile workwear. Their dresses fit like a dream. mmlafleur.com.
- Jackson Square is home to shops like Aēsop, Isabel Marant and Pia. jacksonsquaresf.com.
- Cotogna on Pacific Avenue for delicious house-made pasta. cotognasf.com.
- I love Cuyana's travel cases, and they monogram on-site at their showroom above Union Square. cuyana.com.
- Sushi is my favorite meal—Kusakabe on Washington Street is where we go for celebration dinners. kusakabe-sf.com.
- I'm obsessed with the silk robes from Chinatown's sleek Kim + Ono shop. kimandono.com.
