

LESSON 1: BE UNDERSTANDING

WHAT WE WANT STUDENTS TO LEARN: Understanding and grace are keys to Christ-centered relationships.

WHAT WE WANT STUDENTS TO DO WITH WHAT THEY'VE LEARNED: To identify ways they can be more understanding and gracious in their relationships

Scripture Focus: Luke 6:41-42

OVERVIEW: We look at Jesus' teaching in Luke 6 in regards to judging others, and rightly so. But when applied to our relationships, it shines new light on the spirit behind the words. Jesus' teaching here is all about understanding (empathy may be the more fitting word). Choosing to see other people's shortcomings through the lens of our own is a major part of what it means to have relationships that honor God. It's helping teach students to extend understanding and grace when they watch their friends blow it, either with them or with someone else. In this lesson, you'll challenge them to consider what it looks like to show grace and understanding in their relationships.

BIBLE BACKGROUND

The Bible Background is designed to help you provide some context for the Scripture you'll be studying. The Details give you background info for each book, The Setting informs you what's happening in and around the passage, and The Main Point gives you an overview of how the passage will be used in the lesson.

- What do we mean by “context”? In every ym360 Bible study lesson, you’ll notice we make a point to encourage you to provide the context for the passages you study. By “context” we mean at the very least helping students know who wrote the book, when it was written, and why it was written.
- What’s The Big Deal? When we teach the Bible without giving context, students don’t get a “big picture” understanding of the story of the Bible. But this view is vital to grasping the story of God’s plan of redemption for humankind. As you teach, use the Bible Background to help summarize the context.

THE DETAILS

- Author: Luke was a doctor, a Gentile Christian and a companion of Paul.
- Time frame: The Gospel of Luke was written around 60 AD.
- Purpose: Luke is the only Gentile author of the Bible. His entire purpose was to write an accurate account of the life of Jesus so as to present Jesus as Savior, fully God, and fully man. It is one of the synoptic Gospels, having much in common with the Gospels of Matthew and Mark.

THE SETTING

Luke 6:41-42 is in the third major section of the Sermon on the Plain. The purpose of Jesus’ teaching in the Sermon on the Plain is to recast the Jewish law in a way that is consistent with the teaching of the Old Testament and yet, also exposes the hearts of His hearers in a fresh way. The audience is primarily His disciples (Luke 6:20), but there is also a great crowd listening to Jesus as well (Luke 6:17).

These verses illustrate two major themes of the Sermon on the Plain (and the entire Book of Luke): loving our enemies and extending mercy to those who don’t seem to deserve it.

Is the Sermon on the Plain different from The Sermon on the Mount? The Sermon on the Plain found in Luke has much of the same content as the Sermon on the Mount found in Matthew. There are two possible explanations. First, Luke and Matthew are recording the same sermon, but are simply describing the geographical surroundings differently. Perhaps, Jesus found some sort of plateau on the mountain and Matthew is describing the mountain, while Luke is describing the plateau or plain. The second possibility is that Matthew and Luke are recording two different sermons that share much of the same content, much like hearing a preacher give very similar messages on two different occasions.

THE MAIN POINT

The Sermon on the Plain is ultimately about reversing the way in which we see the world around us. It’s about embracing a Kingdom mindset. Jesus is illustrating for His hearers that part of that reversal is radically changing the way that we relate to other people. When we experience God’s grace through knowing Jesus, we should be, both, aware of our own sinfulness and willing to extend grace to others. Therefore, in the place of a judgmental attitude, we have an attitude of understanding. In the place of searching for the faults of others, we are gracious to others. Why? Because Jesus is well aware of our sinfulness and would be just in condemning us, yet He extended to us understanding and grace.

LESSON PLAN

The Lesson Plan contains three elements: An introductory activity called The Lead-In; the Bible study section called The Main Event; an application-focused segment called The Last Word.

THE LEAD IN

- Goal: For students to begin to think about the concept of empathy and how to create empathy.
- Set-Up: You will need to preview the trailer of the movie "Frozen" (found here http://youtu.be/TbQmSdoF_Uc). You will also need to arrange for a way to show this clip to your students.

FIRST, ask who has seen the movie Frozen. Ask your students to watch the movie trailer as if they had never seen the movie. Play the trailer for them.

THEN, ask them the following questions:

- If you had never seen the entire movie, only the trailer, what are some things you would conclude about Elsa?
Answer: She seems to be an evil queen who has frozen her entire country. She seems to be the villain of the movie.
- OK, now many of you have seen the movie. What is Elsa actually like?
Answer: She is afraid of her powers and doesn't know how to control them. She is not the villain. The "nice guy," Hans, turns out to be the villain.
- What difference does actually knowing Elsa's story make in how you view her?
Answer: It makes a massive difference. In the trailer, it seems like she is an evil ice queen, but in reality, she is not. Once we see the movie, we are much more empathetic to Elsa.
- Do you think we make judgments about people we know without understanding the entire story? Can you give some examples?
Answer: Yes! Probably all the time. The examples will vary.

FINALLY, conclude by observing that we can make some serious judgment mistakes by not understanding the full story. Explain that in your lesson today, you're going to examine how Jesus instructs us to extend grace and understanding toward other people.

Say:

- This is our first of four weeks of looking at what Jesus has to say about relationships. Often, we magnify the faults of other people without truly understanding their situation. We don't take time to understand them. There's another word for developing understanding. It's called empathy. As we study today's passage, these two words are going to be fresh in our minds. We're going to discover what Jesus taught on understanding and empathizing with others.

Then, transition to the Main Event.

THE MAIN EVENT

- Goal: To help students learn that understanding and grace are keys to Christ-centered relationships.
- Set-Up: None.

FIRST, Instruct your students to go to Luke 6:41-42. As they find the passage, go over the Setting with them using the Bible Background. It might be kind of cool to cover the idea of the Sermon on the Plain and how it might or might not be the same teaching as what Matthew recorded as the Sermon on the Mount.

THEN, after everyone has found the passage, read or ask a student to read Luke 6:41-42. Explain that these verses are probably some of Jesus' more famous words. Even people who don't claim to know Jesus are at least faintly familiar with this passage. Lead students in exploring what these verses mean for their lives. Ask:

- What do you think Jesus' point is?
Answers may vary, but the big idea is that we should be more aware of our own sin than the sins of others.
- In this passage, Jesus is using an exaggeration. Obviously, a person can't have a plank in their eye. And even if they could, they wouldn't walk around town with a 2 x 4 stuck in their eye. They'd be in the ER getting it removed. When you think about the imagery, it's actually pretty funny. Why would Jesus use such an outrageous illustration?
Answer: Jesus is making a point. Just as ridiculous as it would be for a man with a 2 x 4 in his eye to try to remove a speck from someone else's eye, it is equally ridiculous for a person with a great sin to ignore their sin and point out someone else's. A plank in a person's eye would be both obvious and serious.
- What does Jesus call people who would do such a thing?
Answer: A hypocrite.
- What is a hypocrite?
Answer: A hypocrite is someone who pretends to be something they are not. Someone who says one thing, but does another. Someone, like the person in this passage, who holds others to a standard that he or she doesn't hold himself or herself to.
- How can we prevent from becoming hypocrites?
Answer: In one sense, we are and will always be hypocritical on some level. We never quite live up to God's standard in our lives. In another sense, though, we can avoid developing the reputation of being hypocritical. We should be honest about our sinfulness, not trying to cover it up. Then, we should never hold others to a standard that we know we don't live up to.

NEXT, point out that Jesus assumes His audience has a log in their eye. He doesn't say, "if you have a plank," but that the plank is there. Say something like:

- This means that all of us, no matter how good we think we are, have obvious and serious sin in our lives. In other words, the first step to having Christ-centered relationships is to be aware of our own sinfulness. We must understand that we have obvious and deep-seated sin issues inside our hearts.

Then, ask:

- What does the passage teach us about the seriousness of our own sin?
Answer: The truth is that all sin separates us from God. All of us are sinners, and our sin is serious. To God, all of our sin is obvious and serious, like a plank protruding from someone's eye.

THE JESUS STUDIES

You need to be reminded of the issues teenagers deal with as they try to live out their faith in a world that's often opposed to their core beliefs. Navigating these issues can be rough. Teenagers get so many mixed messages; the world says one thing, their friends may say another. And we hope they know enough about their faith to know how to make sense of it all. We hope...

THE JESUS STUDIES cut through the confusion, teaching your students a Christ-centered look at the major issues they deal with in their lives.

These are no watered-down, topical Bible Studies. This is Jesus weighing in on the very issues your students are confronted with on a daily basis. It's your students learning to see life through the person of Christ.
