THIS IS NOW.

JANUARY 23RD
TO APRIL 22ND

UNITOM in partnership with Ducie Street Warehouse presents 'This Is Now', a solo exhibition by Lancashire-based artist Iain H Williams.

Iain has created his bold visual language and motifs, referencing urban links and contemporary imagery whilst setting his style. He explores the abstract image and mark-making within an expressionistic form.

The most recent body of works has seen Iain exploring a sectional use of negative space within his paintings to explore a more minimal sense of composition and dynamics.

This collection of paintings highlights a new way forward, of boundaries being pushed and exerted within Williams' work. Choosing to challenge how he composes each piece by creating something then cutting it up and splicing it into something else, these stitched canvases give a new sense of disconnect and tension. The fragmentation brings the work together in a new and exciting way that is refreshing and invigorating whilst still maintaining his recognisable signature style.
