

Cinderloop Measuring Guide

Watch the video at www.cinderloop.com/measuring-guide for a visual demonstration of each measurement!

Measuring Tips

Take your measurements wearing underwear or thin layers you would wear under the garment.

Please do not add extra inches to the measurement! Antoinette will make fit adjustments according to each design. In your profile please include your fit and style preferences.

When measuring, keep the tape measure taut and straight all around body without letting the tape droop down.

Bust

inches

Run tape around body at middle of bustline, going straight across bust, not following cleavage contour. This measurement is usually different from your bra size.

Waist

inches

Run tape around body at narrowest part of waist area. This could be just under your bust if you are short waisted.

Hip

inches

Run tape around body at widest part of hips. This will be roughly 7" or 8" below waistline.

Upper Arm

inches

So the sleeve isn't too tight

Have a friend help you. Measure with arm out and muscle flexed. Run tape around widest part of upper arm, at muscle, halfway between shoulder and elbow.

Cross Back

inches

So the back isn't tight across the shoulders

Have a friend help you. Across full width of back from shoulder seam to shoulder seam, a few inches down from shoulder.

Shoulder to Waist

inches

For any style with waist area design details

From top of shoulder at bra strap, down over bust following contour of body to waist.

Shoulder to Knee

inches

For dresses to make sure the length is correct

Have a friend help you. From top of shoulder at bra strap, down over bust following contour of body to knee.
