Description (more info)

Dra'n of Barovia, Paladin/Chef Order of the Lightbringers (formerly Order of Sir Richard.)

Dra'n is a cook following less a recipe book and more a belief in himself and his intent (charisma checks for cooking.) Eventually our DM Matt wanted to add something and his food began giving an effect similar to bardic inspiration (1/day) to anyone who eats the little candies he makes. Later in the game, Dra'n was injured by noxious gasses and his sense of smell now misleads him now and again...

The in-game result of this is that each time a person eats the candies, I have to roll a d60 to determine if the flavor is a good one (21-60, inspiration) like gooseberry pie ~OR~ a bad one (1-20, no inspiration) like all-day boot sweat.

Our DM also determined that since his cooking is magical and therefor falls under the rules of something like prestidigitation, the player gets the flavor AND the other sensations of whatever is determined via the table
