Student School: You have been given the opportunity to run your high school in any way you see fit. Of course, you must still maintain order and keep the high levels of achievement in tact. As you plan your school, consider the following questions.

1. The more students your school has, the more money you receive. How will you convince students to stay at your school?
2. How will you recruit more students to come to your school?
3. Where will your students live? On campus? Off campus?
4. Will you control how students at your school think? If so, how?
5. How can your school raise extra money? (You can sell off school resources or use your students as labor.)
6. Since you have the hard job of running the school, what benefits will you have that other students will not?
7. Your school should have a flag to represent it. What will it look like?
8. What are some school institutions (classes, school lunches, recess, homework) to be done away with?
9. What will replace these institutions?
10. What new building will you add to the school property? Why?
11. How will you pay for this building? The State has cut off your funding.
12. What new rules will you add to keep students in line?
13. What will you do with students who do not follow the rules?
14. How will you keep academic levels as high as they were under adult rule?
15. As the fearless leaders, will you have to take classes? Explain yourself to the rest of the student population.
