SADDLE INFORMATION

GENERAL INFORMATION ON TREES

The saddle tree is the foundation of a good saddle. The tree shape determines what the finished saddle will look like. Surprisingly there is little or no information available for the dealer to explain the differences of the various types of trees found in today's saddles. We hope that this guide will help in explaining to your customers exactly what it is they are buying. It is written for the novice as well as the expert.

MEASUREMENTS

This is a general guide for how a saddle tree is measured.

GENERAL INFORMATION ON RIGGING TYPES

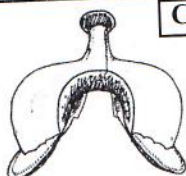

The rigging is what holds the saddle to the horse. It is attached to the tree with heavy screws and can come in a variety of styles and positions. The riggings we use are especially designed to be secure no matter what kind of riding the saddle is used for.

TREE STYLES

These are Colorado Saddlery's most popular styles of trees, the Colorado Association (CA), the Colorado Bowman (CB), the Colorado A Fork (CAF) and the Colorado Wade (CW). Standard or semi quarter horse gullet width is 6 1/2". Wide or full quarter horse gullet is 7". For complete tree specs see pages 161 and 162.

Cante: 5" • 1 1/4" Dish
Bar Legth: 23 1/4"

TREE MATERIALS

There seem to be saddle trees made of new materials on the market every day. The following are the "basics". These are the types of trees that we use in Colorado Saddlery Saddles.

Rawhide Covered

This is the "original" style of tree. The tree is constructed of wood and covered with rawhide which is stitched around the wood parts. This type of tree can be used for any purpose.

Amar Coated

This style of tree is constructed of wood and sprayed with a special coating of Amar Coat polyurthane. Amar coating is the same material used for spraying in truck bed linings. The added bonus is that the wood is completely protected from moisture and there is no stitching. It is extremely strong and durable and decreases the weight of the tree. It can be used for any type of riding.

Equi-Fit • Fiberglass Covered

This style of tree is constructed of wood and covered with fiberglass. It is strong and durable and decreases the weight of the tree. It can be used for any type of riding.

All of our trees have a 5 year warantee.

RIGGING TYPES

These are examples of Colorado Saddlery's most popular rigging styles, the Hanging Dee, the Flat Plate and the Colorado Saddlery 3-Way "Perfect Rig"™.

Colorado Saddlery 3-Way "Perfect Rig"™

The 3-Way "Perfect Rig"™ is designed to allow you to set your rigging at the full, 7/8 or 3/4 position depending on the horse or the country you are riding in. The design of the rigging means that your latigos hang true no matter what position you choose.

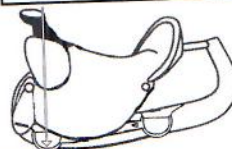

Flat Plate Rigging

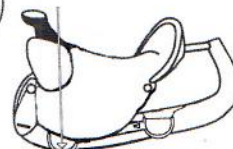

Hanging Dee Rigging

RIGGING POSITIONS

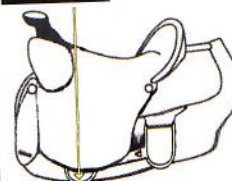

Rigging position determines where the saddle will sit on the horse's back and where the cincha will ride on the horse's belly. The most popular position is the 7/8.

The Mounted Patrol

When the Denver Mounted Patrol came to us looking for a saddle they had some specifics in mind. They needed a saddle comfortable enough to ride in all day - every day with a secure seat that the rider couldn't be easily pulled down from it. It had to fit a horse. The MOUNTED PATROL was the saddle that they designed and we built and now we are offering to the public. This saddle was designed to be extra comfortable and still secure with the tree to fit a horse extra well. If you are ever in Denver and see the mounted patrol take a look!

INTRODUCING THE 21st CENTURY SADDLE COLORADO SADDLERY'S The Equalizer™

The only saddle that actually adjusts itself to fit your horse's back

What makes The Equalizer™ different?

Built into the saddle are encapsulated silicon gel lined bars. Silicon gel lined bars mean that the tree actually adjust itself to a horse's back. The cushion the gel provides means a better fit for a horse and better fit means better performance.

Frequently Asked Questions

Will the gel freeze?

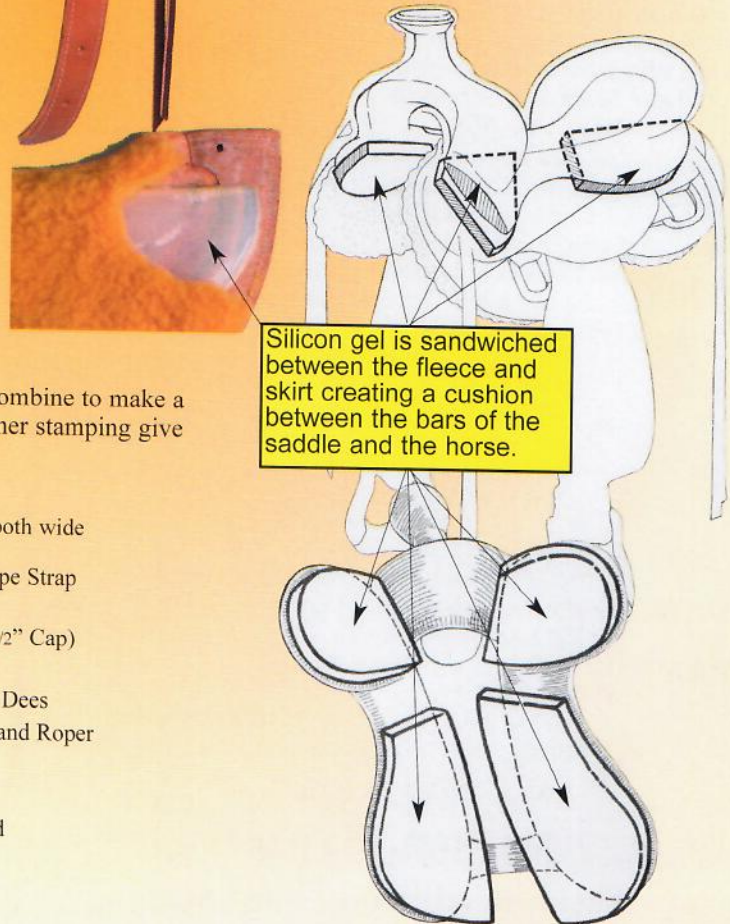

Yes it will freeze but it will not rupture. As the horse warms it the gel will thaw and return to it's original consistency.

Will the gel rupture?

We haven't had any rupture except when stabbed with a sharp object but the gel can be replaced as easily as replacing the fleece lining during routine maintenance of a saddle.

Does the gel add much weight?

The gel only adds 4 lbs. to the weight of the saddle!

Silicon gel is sandwiched between the fleece and skirt creating a cushion between the bars of the saddle and the horse.

The Equalizer™ is a great saddle for any style of riding. A deep dish seat, cut out skirt for close contact between horse and rider and a full 13" undercut swell all combine to make a saddle ride the way it should. The unique Prairie Rose corner stamping give this saddle a solid western look without flashiness.
