TRANSMISSION ONE

We are aware that inner transformation requires dedicated work and effort on the part of the Trustee, and that, even though you have recognized and are dealing with the Illusion's impact on your Personality, every one of our Trustees is experiencing Fourth-dimensional awakening on different levels. Your purpose in this Life-experience is to understand and destroy all those things that your Illusional Personality uses to prevent your transformation in consciousness beyond the Fourth-dimension.

For example, it is said that when a person dies from drowning their whole life passes before their consciousness in an instant, involving both good and bad experiences. Now, the same situation occurs for everyone, following the death of their body.

When this happens, nothing is hidden from consciousness. During their daily life humans constantly behave in a bad way, lying, and cheating others, and they appear not to be affected by their negative behavior. Of course, everyone is aware that what they are doing is wrong, but somehow pass it over. How is this?

From early childhood the Personality begins to build a thick wall around their consciousness, and they do this to wall out conscience. On one side of the wall is their accepted bad behavior, and on the other side is the awareness that they are behaving badly. It's living a divided life, a life of contradictions. When the body dies, this wall is broken down, and the Personality reveals to Essence the negative side of the life existence. Nothing is hidden, and all is retained in Essence's memory, and the whole life immediately recurs.

So you must realize that, now, as you strive to awaken your consciousness to the Personality's behavior and begin to remove the bricks in the wall and confront these contradictions in your behavior, you must do this here and now in order that, on the death of your body, these contradictions will not exist, and you will not recur in the same circumstances again.

This so called wall that you build begins when a child, and the bricks and mortar are best described as attitudes, which, in turn, are aligned to identification with these attitudes. You have your father's, mother's, and grandparent's attitudes, plus all others you pick up on the way through education and later, when working and in your social activities. It can rightly be said that you are either your father's or mother's attitudes, but most likely it is a combination of both. Mostly, when you talk to someone and ask why they dislike something or someone's behavior, they will not be able to give any particular reason except that they know that type of behavior is wrong. They do not believe they have an attitude, or that it was something learned from their parents. Unconscious attitudes allow individuals to behave in a negative and cruel manner and never feel bad about such behavior, and they will always justify their reasons for acting and talking that way.

There are many important people who are always right, and aspire to be the leaders in the world. You will see these people in politics, in every country of the world. They have built very high and thick walls, and never feel any pangs of conscience from the other side of their wall. They lie, cheat, deny everything, create wars and financial upsets, all without any feeling of remorse. As well, they are artful in justifying their actions that are always done for the good of something.

Of course, this type of personality is not limited to those involved in politics, but abounds in greater society; however, you will always find the greatest concentration of such people involved in politics at all levels of government. The higher and the thicker the wall, the more asleep the Personality and the greater their involvement in the Illusion.

No one is immune from attitudes and identification. If I were to ask you what you are identified with at this present moment, you possibly could not answer because you are unaware that you are identified. Now, this is important for you to contemplate and observe because it means you are asleep. For this reason we constantly suggest that you have to be more observant of everything in your Personality, which includes all the many I's that rule your life. So what is it that observes? A Personality "I" cannot observe itself. So there is something else that becomes the observer within your consciousness.

I know many Trustees have struggled with the development of observing an I that is distinct from all the I's of Illusional Personality. To make this plain, we need to have a distinction between Personality and Illusional Personality. We know that Illusional Personality is ruled by all the negative aspects of the world, and is mechanical in what it does, feels and thinks; whereas true Personality has little impact on life. True Personality has developed alongside Illusional Personality and functions in maintaining the body, and has developed life skills that relate to coping with life in the environment: particular work skills, general hygiene, and everything that relates to functioning in Nature. Illusional Personality, though, thrives on self-importance, pride, vanity, and all the negative aspects of life that engender fame, wealth and control over others as well as the environment. In other words, Illusional Personality dominates living.

When you destroy Illusional Personality, you are left with a Personality that is capable of living and working to maintain its existence in the natural order, a Personality that has no attitudes, identification or negative traits. It is perfectly ready to develop its existence with Essence, and express the Light of Essence for the Earth.

We will now return to the development of the Observing I that you have to create in the true Personality, as distinct from the Illusional Personality and all its I's. The observing I will eventually become your only I and it is created through your studies of the Transmissions and the application of what you have learned. You know that the Transmissions are distinct and separate from the Illusion, because they come from a higher source. The Transmissions represent the higher consciousness that exists in Being beyond the Illusion and this Dimension. Through your studies you are manifesting the Light knowledge into the dimension through true Personality as distinct from Illusional Personality. In fact, they are both existing and developing separately in the world. However, for anyone who has not been drawn to the Inner Teachings, their Life will only display the Illusional Personality,

As you increase your knowledge and understanding of the higher truths and apply them to your life, they become the observing I in true Personality. The I observes all the negative I's – their attitudes, emotions, and so on – and eventually, over a long period, will destroy their effect on your consciousness. Your observing I observes, and records what it sees in its memory, which grows by the day. It is not critical of what it observes, but increases the memory of the actions of Illusional Personality. Now here an interesting thing occurs. All the stored memories are utilized by Essence. This is the transformation. We have said that Essence has to develop in power and destroy Illusional Personality. With the development of a permanent I in Personality, Essence utilizes the memories to eliminate the power of the various I's in Illusional Personality, and, in turn, destroys the function of Illusional Personality. Now you begin to ascend to the higher levels of the Fourth-dimension and into the Light of the Kingdom of which Ma Kwa taught.

From this you will realize why we have focused on remembering and observation during your study in these two Series. Every effort you make daily, no matter how small, will increase your transformation. But you have to consciously do something daily. We have not discussed true Personality previously in the Transmissions because, at that stage, it would have confused your developing knowledge of the Illusion and its hold over Personality. We concentrated on learning how Illusional Personality develops from childhood, and how Essence is restricted and denied its function through the body. It is important that you realize the full impact of the Illusion before you can know how to destroy its hold over your consciousness.

Does this make your work on self any easier? Yes, it does, because you realize the importance the Transmissions have in your life and ultimate freedom. The Transmissions contain the elements of truth from the higher level of consciousness, which, when applied correctly, will transform your Personality. And what is the ultimate purpose for you? It is to work to transform the Earth's consciousness. You leave behind all your personal desires for greatness and importance, and live unselfishly to fulfil the needs of the Earth and its Personality.

I would like you to consider the following in your contemplation. In this Transmission we have shown how true Personality functions in accordance with Illusional Personality, fulfilling the needs of the Earth. If you are unable to recognize this part of Personality because of the dominance of the Illusional Personality, then observe the lives and functions of the other animals. Recognize their application of Personality, which is free of the effect of the Illusion, and how they live through and with Nature. This is what your Personality would be doing if there were no Illusion. However, the Illusion has provided the means whereby humanity has to struggle to add to Personality the higher Light that works for the Earth, and is something that will eventually be added to all other organisms.

Finally, I want to direct your consciousness to the relationship of evolution and the inner way. As you know from your studies with these Transmissions, Zadore has said there is no such thing as evolution within the Creative Universe, that everything that manifests is perfect in its own being. However, because humanity lives in the Illusion of Personality, which is imperfect, they believe that this aspect of Personality is changing and evolving into something different and important. But this cannot be a reality, because it is an aspect of Personality based on negativity.

The concept of evolution has been woven into many esoteric religions and occult groups, over many thousands of years, and it is obvious that their teachings are based on the ideas propounded by the Illusion. Their confusion revolves around the belief in an eternal soul, and is the result of the early thinking and teachings of the Greek Philosophers. Quickly the early Christian Religion added the Neo Platonic teachings to support and expand their doctrines, and the soul became an integral part of their teachings, and with it the evolution of the soul in man. Later, those mystics who founded different Orders and Societies, continued to support the idea of evolution of the soul. Later, science applied the same principle to the evolution of the body.

We may ask what is the difference between people who lived three thousand years ago and those of the present century? Generally the answer is that humanity has evolved from a peasant society to one that is an enlightened technological one. But, inwardly, nothing has changed because humanity still expresses the same negativity, is jealous and vain, selfish and greedy; in fact, they are unchanged inwardly.

If you are to believe in evolution and cause and effect, then there is no need for you to remember. Zadore states you have to remember; that is, remember what you are. To do this means that you already are, and that you cannot alter or change into something different. The esoteric orders suggest that humanity descended into matter and through evolution it must ascend, bringing with them worthwhile experiences. In effect, the concept here is correct, but the method of attainment is not taught. It is the development of true Personality that brings new experiences to Essence. Essence develops out of the higher truths that true Personality attaches to itself, and in turn adds this to Essence. It is as if Essence grows through its own being or consciousness. Zadore has said when this higher conscious knowledge that is given to mankind through the Transmissions and other sources, is added to the Intellectual Center, it begins to weaken Personality's dependence on the Illusion.

Often these sources of higher knowledge are utilized by those human beings, who over thousands of years have destroyed the Illusion in their Personality, and have moved their consciousness to the Fifth-dimension, and still constantly radiate the truths that belong to that dimension to struggling humanity. We know this occurs, but unfortunately, the actuality of it has been distorted by greedy Astral Entities who have invented the concepts of ascended Masters, Great White Brotherhoods, and an elite that actually rule the world. And we do know that the so-called elite consists of the bulk of these entities banded together, under beings such as Janix and Razparil.

At this stage of your development these Entities have no power over your consciousness, which is shielded from their negative influences by the Vortex of Light and Healing. You should not dwell on their existence or the poison they inject into society, because you are free from their Illusion over your consciousness.
