

FINANCIAL LITERACY  FOR  KIDS

Cat and Dog Learn to Budget

Written by Rozanne Lanczak Williams
Illustrated by Gloria Y. Jenkins

Because it's so easy, Cat wants to go shopping and spend the money that was saved for anything. When Cat discovers what anything every day really means, the two friends learn about budgeting and make a plan for their piggy bank money.

FINANCIAL LITERACY FOR KIDS

> Financial literacy topics covered in this book:

- > Earning money
- > Budgeting
- > Needs and wants
- > Making choices on how to spend money
- > Spending on day-to-day expenses
- > Saving for larger expenses
- > Buying things
- > Charitable giving (donating)

Discuss these topics before, during, and after reading the book. Use the questions and activities on page 32 to inspire and extend learning.

Dear Readers,

I hope the 6 books in my new series will help you understand money basics, such as earning, spending, saving, budgeting, giving, and planning! And . . . I guarantee that these books will be fun to read thanks to my pals Cat and Dog, who help me tell the stories.

These characters have been reader favorites in some of the 250 books I've written to help all over the world learn to read and write.

Let's explore, all together, how we can become money-smart kids!

Happy reading!

Rozanne

Cat and Dog: Money Basics Budget
© 2020 Creative Teaching Press Inc.

Written by Rozanne Lanczak Williams
Illustrated by Victoria Y. Jenkins

Published in the United States of America by:
Creative Teaching Press Inc.
22 Katella Avenue
Cypress, CA 90630

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced in any form without the written permission of Creative Teaching Press.

Cat and Dog Learn to Budget

Written by Rozanne Lanczak Williams
Illustrated by Gloria Y. Jenkins

creative teaching press

Today is a rainy day.

Cat and Dog stay at home.

They read books.

They play a game.

They bake cookies.

