Check urine good health

We Test is an at-home urine test for health issues such as dehydration, glucose, protein, vitamin C, pH levels, white blood cells and more. It's an Australian brand created by Sydney mum of two Sophie Castleman that uses the expertise of kidney specialist Associate Professor David Gracey.

Each We Test kit contains three strips, a colour chart and an information sheet. Each box contains three individually packaged tests. The indicators on the strip will produce a result by changing colour, and then users can compare the results on the strip against the colour-coded results chart included in the box.

RRP: We Test, $19.99.
