

Social Media Policy

Due to the nature of our centre being a technology lounge, there is the expectation that the children attending and their parents will already have a reasonable exposure to social media. As TenForward is a learning environment to inspire online citizenship and entrepreneurship through content creation, the children will have every opportunity to be involved in videos and photos that will be uploaded to the TenForward social media accounts (and the children's accounts).

They may be identified by their first names, their gamer tags, their school uniform or other generally identifying information. Photos, video, content created at TenForward may be used on any of our social platforms and promotional materials.

Attending TenForward is automatic agreement to potentially have your child included in content creation. Parents will need to opt out by specifically advising staff that their child may NOT feature in social media content created by the children and posted online.

Care is taken to ensure that content featuring children is appropriate for a general audience. We anticipate that much of our audience are other children, and we want to show them content that is representative of activities they would do if they came to TenForward.

Names and other personally identifying information are generally avoided in social media, although first names are sometimes used. School uniforms are often worn by students, which will identify their school.

We do not recommend children use their names as game usernames, and we do not allow sharing of personal information across gaming platforms, social networks etc.

Children are allowed and encouraged to share photos and content they make at TenForward to their own social networks, and to follow the TenForward accounts:
