 Uses: Bass, Pike & Saltwater Flies, Keeled Flies & use with Vinyl Bass Baits

This "Grim Reaper™" tied by Pat Ehlers on a 60° Jig Hook (4630) will take largemouth bass the same as a "Jig & Pig" lure used by traditional bass fishers.

Pat Ehlers created this fly he named the "Foam Tail Superworm™" on a Wide-Gape J Hook (X-15) to use as a fly alternative to the plastic worms used by bass fishers that use conventional gear.

Klinkhamer Hook

Designed by Hans van Klinken

1160 (Bronze) 1167 (Black Nickel)
Curved shank, wide gape, slightly heavy wire, straight-eye
Uses: Klinkhamers, Emergers, Caseless Caddis Nymphs and Gammarus Patterns

Hans van Klinken created "The Klinkhamer Special" as a caddis emerger imitation. His signature hooks are great for many kinds of emerger patterns.

Klinkhamer Special tied by Leon Links

Paul Weamer's Mayfly Hook

1230 (Bronze)
Round bend, 2X-long upturned shank, down-eye, "mini-barb"
Uses: Dry Flies, Paul Weamer's Flies

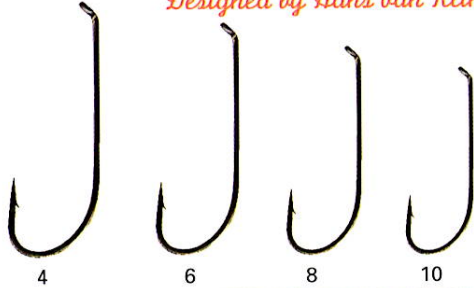

Paul Weamer developed his signature hook & fly patterns fishing famous Catskill streams. The upturned hook shank allows the creation of natural appearing mayfly imitations with parachute tied underneath which ride high in the surface film.

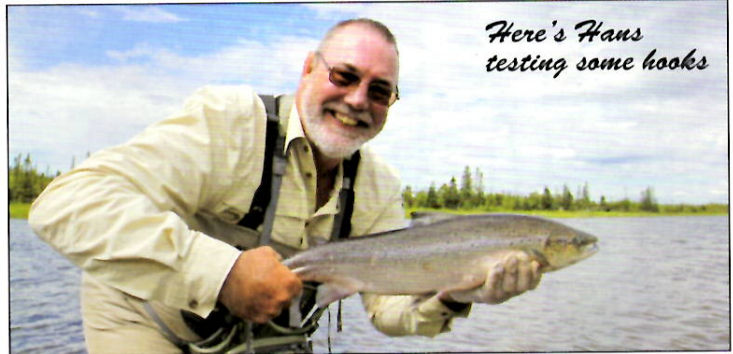

Truform Hendrickson Emerger tied by Paul Weamer

Van Klinken Bomber Hook

Designed by Hans van Klinken

2110 (Bronze) 2117 (Black)
Wide-gape, Limerick bend, medium wire, down-eye, forged
Uses: Bombers and other flies for salmon, steelhead, bass or large trout

Here's Hans testing some hooks

The "Bomber" is a popular dry fly pattern that is very effective for catching Atlantic salmon. Hans van Klinken designed his own "perfect" Bomber hook because he was frustrated with other salmon hooks available to him. His new signature hook has all the key features necessary to tie perfect Bombers . . . and land large fish!

Intruder Trailer Hooks

2553 (Red) 2557 (Black Nickel)
Wide-gape, round bend, slightly curved point, up-eye, forged, reversed
Uses: Intruder and Stinger flies, trailing hooks

Jay Peck's Intruder variant

Intruder style flies were created by Ed Ward, Jerry French and Scott Howell to catch west coast steelhead, but they have caught the imagination of steelhead and salmon fishermen worldwide. Modern Intruder variations, like the one shown here, are easy to tie and very effective for large steelhead.
