

CLEANING & CARE

ANTI FATIGUE STANDING MATT

- Sweep with a broom or brush on a daily basis to remove dirt, grime, soil, and dust. Maintain your mats with this simple but effective technique.
- To clean, use a mild soap, detergent, or degreaser (Do not use high pH chemicals, bleach, or solvents to clean as these materials could damage the mat surface. The solvents pH should be between 4.0 - 9.0) with hot water (120-140 degrees) to clean the anti-fatigue mat surface and eliminate grease or oil. It is important to clean these mats as necessary to prevent the oil and grease from damaging the mat surface.
- Do not use machine washers or mechanically scrub these mats. They do not require aggressive cleaning techniques or drying procedures with mechanical intervention. The entire cleaning process should not exceed more than 20 minutes with steps including flushing, letting the water and solution apply, rinsing, draining (depending if your mat has holes), and then drying.
- Allow the mats to dry for a significant amount of time before utilizing them again. Lay them flat after being cleaned and give them the proper time required to cool off. Also, do not immediately roll your mat and allow time to dry.
