Course Information

Course Description

This course walks participants through the steps of creating a classroom culture plan that establishes an orderly, yet exciting classroom where students can and want to do the hard work that is required to learn and succeed. Participants uncover what motivates students to engage in learning and what the underlying causes of misbehaviors. Learners in the course will develop stronger communication techniques to motivate students in order to ensure that what is communicated is relevant, meaningful, and engaging. Strategies are also shared for developing positive and trusting peer-to-peer, teacher-to-student, and parent-teacher relationships in order to set the foundation for a productive, engaged, and respectful classroom.

In addition to designing a classroom culture plan that emphasizes motivation and engagement, participants will learn two verbal techniques that help keep behaviors optimal and in line with the expectations in the classroom. The techniques are constructed to teach students about making choices, consequences and likely outcomes that result from their choices. With these techniques, and other strategies in the course, participants will learn strategies for teaching students how to monitor and regulate their own behavior, thereby building student skills needed for success. Outcomes include skills needed to de-escalate disruptive behavior and what questions to ask to spur student reflection.

This course also recognizes the importance of clear expectations, procedures, and proactive strategies to effective classroom management. The Safety, Order and Rights value set is presented as one framework for clarifying and communicating the classroom expectations and is compatible with other value sets that simply and easily communicate the rationale for expectations and procedures. Participants will reflect on their actions and how this may contribute to negative disciplinary outcomes for special populations such as special needs students, students in poverty, ELL students, and historically discriminated against minority races. Overall, application of the course outcomes will create more efficient, effective, and engaged classrooms.

Target Grade Levels

K-12

Integration of Danielson Framework for Teaching Components

Primary Standards:

Domain 2: Classroom Environment

2b: Establishing a Culture for Learning

- The participants learn the psychology behind student motivation, and how to utilize motivational strategies to engage students in learning. These proactive skills reduce classroom management challenges and provide an exciting and productive environment for student success and teacher morale. The course connects the concepts of motivation, engaging tasks, and student behaviors, and learning outcomes.

2d Managing Student Behavior

- This course develops the participant's understanding of student misbehavior and consequences. The educators will compare traditional discipline practices with modern conceptions of positive classroom management. The learners are equipped with several strategies to address student misbehavior in a non-judgmental, caring, restorative, and effective manner in order to restore a focus on learning.

Additional Standards:

Domain 2: Classroom Environment

- 2a Creating an Environment of Respect and Rapport
- 2c Managing Classroom Procedures
- 2e Organizing Physical Space

Domain 3: Instruction

- 3a Communicating with Students
- 3c Engaging Students in Learning

Domain 4: Professional Responsibilities

- 4e Growing and Developing Professionally

Integration of Standards (Student standards should address Next Generation learning Standards)

NYS Professional Development Standards

6. Student Learning Environments: Professional development ensures that educators are able to create safe, secure, supportive, and equitable learning environments for all students.

6a. Professional development provides opportunities for educators to create a safe, inclusive, equitable learning community where everyone participates in maintaining a climate of caring, respect, and high achievement.

6b. Professional development provides opportunities for educators to collaborate with school psychologists and social workers to develop effective strategies for student behavior and classroom management, and to seek creative solutions to conflicts.

6c. Professional development provides opportunities for educators to analyze and use data about student behavior (such as discipline referrals, suspension information, school climate surveys, and social-emotional data) to refine educational practices and promote optimal learning environments.

Key Shift #2: Knowing Your Students

Analyzing and improving instruction through a culturally responsive lens that highlights and supports teachers in knowing their students

- Instruction that Reflects Students: Developing a student-centered approach to rigorous content instruction that acknowledges and affirms students' cultural experiences, knowledge and expressions as assets for teaching and learning.
- Using Assessment in Instruction: Develop understanding, creation and implementation of formative and summative assessments and the use of a range of qualitative and quantitative information to inform instructional decisions.
- Social and Emotional Learning: Understanding socio-emotional learning and integrating within a culturally responsive and sustaining instructional context.
- Using Data, Informed by Multiple Perspectives, to Understand Students: Understanding how to effectively utilize a range of qualitative and quantitative data sources to inform and adapt instruction & assessments; Ensuring that multiple perspectives must shape not only which data teachers collect, but also how teachers analyze and interpret data.
- Classroom Communities: Developing a classroom culture that welcomes and affirms the individual identities and strengths of each student.
- Welcoming Families: Taking responsibility to learn about student cultures and communities while building and sustaining meaningful relationships with families.

Pedagogical Approach

This course consists of six Modules, each of which features andragogic strategies to meet the needs of diverse teacher learners in the NYC DOE. Each Module is comprised of research-based best practices, reading assignments, classroom and pedagogically focused video, reflection/analysis questions, discussion boards, 2 Authentic Tasks (in lieu of a midterm), downloadable resources (Appendix D), a Classroom Practice Analysis, and a comprehensive Final Project.

The course contains interactive presentations covering student motivation, engagement, consequences, and strategies for communication. Additionally, some presentations describe specific strategies such as the Safety, Rights, Order Value Set and PBIS. Participants complete two authentic tasks which collect data on student misbehavior and plan effective ways to respond to misbehavior. Throughout the modules, the learners create small final project tasks, which are synthesized into a comprehensive final project, the Classroom Culture Planning Document, which leaves participants equipped with a plan to implement positive climate and culture strategies.

Application to Instruction and Student Learning

Course Objectives

In this course, learners will:

- Understand the importance of classroom management and the relationship between engaging work, student behavior, and learning outcomes.
- Explore theories of motivation and behavior management and apply these theories to the creation of a classroom culture plan.
- Explain how to begin implementing PBIS and give examples of both preventative and responsive positive discipline techniques.
- Explain how to effectively redirect students and implement a logical consequence using firm yet respectful teacher language.
- Describe the most effective way to develop, introduce, and/or reinforce classroom rules and procedures.
- Learn about ways to create a brave learning community.
- Analyze a study about disparate monitoring for off task behaviors.
- Reflect on their own childhood discipline experiences. They discuss ways that students from the non-dominant cultures may experience and perceive discipline from authorities in a different way.
- Learn about PBIS and Restorative Practices and compare them to traditional punitive systems.
- Consider how punitive methods can contribute to inequity.
- Compare traditional punishment to a logical and solution-oriented approach.
- Analyze ways that special populations may be disproportionately harmed by punishments and consider ways to have more logical consequences and restorative responses.
- Consider the role of implicit bias in disciplinary consequences.
- Analyze disciplinary disparity statistics.
- Analyze school policy to identify practices that either create barriers or offer support for students.
- Compare traditional punishment to a logical and solution-oriented approach.
- Analyze ways that special populations may be disproportionately harmed by punishments and consider ways to have more logical consequences and restorative responses.
- Consider the role of implicit bias in disciplinary consequences.
- Analyze disciplinary disparity statistics.
- Analyze school policy to identify practices that either create barriers or offer support for students.
- Learn to plan classroom procedures and routines that build student capacity for self-regulation.
- Analyze a variety of classroom rules and procedures to determine which may contribute to inequity.
- Reflect on their own practices and determine to what degree their own unique identity, experiences, and culture contribute to their classroom management philosophy.
- Create a classroom culture plan that utilizes proactive, positive, and restorative practices.
- Create a classroom culture plan that considers the unique identity and needs of non-dominant cultural groups and other special populations.
- Reflect on what they have learned about their own identity and underlying assumptions throughout the course and consider how their students have different identities and experiences.

Course Outcomes

By the end of the course, learners will:

- Utilize a variety of intrinsic and extrinsic motivation techniques in class
- Engage students with meaningful and interesting work
- Apply PBIS strategies for a positive and efficient classroom
- Implement a variety of appropriate consequences
- Evaluate and use a variety of discipline approaches for special student populations
- Analyze the components of effective routines and rituals and refine their use in class
- Establish effective classroom rules that are continuously reinforced to students
- Implement and analyze one of the downloadable resources from this course to determine how the resource meets the needs of his/her students or colleagues.
- Lead an engaging and well managed classroom that increases student achievement

Assessment

Participants receive formative feedback throughout presentations and in discussion boards. Participants are summatively assessed on Discussion Board participation (Appendix A), two Authentic Tasks and a Classroom Practice Analysis (Appendix B); and a Final Project (Appendix C) through rubric-based feedback from course facilitators. Authentic Tasks, the Classroom Practice Analysis, and Final Project feedback includes constructive feedback throughout the submission, a scored rubric, and a detailed summative comment. Participant receive feedback in 1-7 days of submission (review the Feedback section for more details).

Participants also complete both a pre- and post-assessment in the course. The pre-assessment enables participants to reflect on their prior knowledge, comfort level, and current level of competency, and the post-assessment allows them to determine what knowledge and skills they have gained by taking the course.

Connection to Culturally Responsive-Sustaining Dispositions & Practices (CR-SDP)

Participants reflect on their own experiences and beliefs about classroom rules, student motivation, and student's behavior. Participants analyze and question traditional policies and practices that may lead to disparate disciplinary experiences - and compare these approaches to Restorative Practices, PBIS, and solutions-oriented thinking. Participants create a classroom culture plan that motivates and affirms all students by considering their unique identities, motivations, culture, and experience. The outcomes of the class include the development of an inclusive classroom culture plan that considers the needs of non-dominant and marginalized groups in order to support all students and break down barriers to equity.

Major Assignment	Due Date
Authentic Task #1: Collecting Data on Student Behavior	Self-paced. Due by May 26, 2023
Authentic Task #2: Responding to Misbehavior	Self-paced. Due by May 26, 2023
Classroom Practice Analysis	Self-paced. Due by May 26, 2023
Final Project: Classroom Culture Planning Document	Self-paced. Due by May 26, 2023

Feedback

Participants receive formative feedback throughout presentations and in discussion boards. Participants are summatively assessed on Discussion Board participation (Appendix A), two Authentic Tasks and a Classroom Practice Analysis (Appendix B); and a Final Project (Appendix C) through rubric-based feedback from course facilitators. Authentic Tasks, the Classroom Practice Analysis, and Final Project feedback includes constructive feedback throughout the submission, a scored rubric, and a detailed summative comment.

Facilitators have received revised instructions and grading rubric and will respond to every comment in each discussion board. Facilitators will inform each participant who has had a comment added to their post to return to the discussion board to continue the conversation and reply to their colleague's comment to their post.

Formative Feedback:

Participants receive formative feedback throughout the course as part of the design of the interactive presentations (e.g., feedback on reflection/analysis questions, etc.). Participants also receive consistent and targeted formative feedback from Facilitators in the Discussion Boards, as facilitators provide public comments/responses/additional questions to drive thinking, collaboration, and connection to practice. This course makes a special effort to give formative feedback in the form of concept quizzes and final project components in every module.

Summative Feedback:

Participants receive rubric-driven summative feedback on their 12 Discussion Boards within 1-3 days of submission. For the two Authentic Tasks, Classroom Practice Analysis and Final Project, participants receive rubric driven feedback within one week of submission. Facilitators work with participants to support their successful completion of all tasks/Discussion Boards by providing opportunities for participants to resubmit work, based on targeted feedback, that falls below standards outlined in the course's rubrics.

Grades

Assignment(s)	Percentage of final grade
Authentic Tasks	30%
Classroom Practice Analysis	15%
Discussion Board Participation	20%
Final project	35%

Application to Instruction and Student Learning:

Participants will understand the importance of classroom management to teaching and learning through investigation of management and motivation. The learners study and summarize theories of motivation and explain how they relate to creating a culture of learning. The participants compare the effectiveness of traditional discipline techniques to modern research and evaluate the best discipline procedures. Collaborative discussion boards examine the topics of advocacy and discipline techniques. The module culminates with the composition of a vision statement for a classroom culture of learning.

This module will give an overview of behavior management theories and current management trends, with an emphasis on positive approaches to behavior, the importance of uncovering the root cause of a behavior and using engagement to decrease behavior issues. It will also relate these elements back to the foundational theories of motivation discussed in the previous module. Participants will explore theories and models of classroom management and analyze the theory behind their components. Learners will understand the importance of praise, discover the foundations of PBIS, and learn positive management techniques. Additionally, participants list student engagement strategies, and explain the link between engagement and management. Collaborative discussion boards examine ways to refine the classroom vision. Final project tasks synthesize the module learning into plan components for praising and engaging students.

Connection to Critical Consciousness/CRSE:

Criteria from Rubric (the criteria marked by an asterisk (*) will be evaluated this year but providers may address other criteria):

* Goals clearly connect to supporting teachers in developing more equitable practices for all students, in particular those who have been historically underserved and marginalized (including but not limited to students of color, students with disabilities, and multilingual learners)

* Course integrates historical and contemporary resources and research that reflect and center the experiences and perspectives of non-dominant racial and cultural groups

* Course builds participants' capacity to identify and question underlying personal and institutional beliefs, norms, practices and assumptions that contribute to inequity

Activity:

- Presentation: Considering Special Populations
- Reading Analysis:
Sometimes the disciplinary problems of some special populations are exacerbated by bias, mistrust, or cultural disconnection. The students from special populations and historically marginalized groups are at risk of unfair disciplinary outcomes. Consider the research and statistics - and then continue to consider how to support students and break down barriers created through implicit biases. What are the connections between implicit bias and racial disproportionality in discipline? Read the selections below and consider the implications of the data. When you post on the discussion board and create your classroom culture plan, make sure to consider how a student's individual identity, culture, and lived experiences may affect how they experience school discipline when compared to the dominant culture.
  - How Implicit Bias Impacts Our Children in Education
  - Racial disproportionality
  - Educator bias is associated with racial disparities in student achievement and discipline
- Discussion Question: School/District Discipline Policy
- Discussion Question: Collaborating to Serve All Students

Application to Instruction and Student Learning:

In this module, learners will discuss different types and systems of consequences, explain why logical consequences or "solutions" are most effective, and outline steps for establishing logical consequences. Participants will evaluate the best ways to differentiate consequences for special populations of students and work with parents to maximize success. The module connects this study to policy, and educators research their school or district's discipline policies. Collaborative discussion boards examine discipline policies and ways to serve diverse students. The module's learning will be synthesized to create final project components planning for special populations and implementing logical consequences.

Assessment and Feedback:

Key Shift #2: Knowing Your Students

Analyzing and improving instruction through a culturally responsive lens that highlights and supports teachers in knowing their students

- Instruction that Reflects Students:
Developing a student-centered approach to rigorous content instruction that acknowledges and affirms students' cultural experiences, knowledge and expressions as assets for teaching and learning.
- Social and Emotional Learning:
Understanding socio-emotional learning and integrating within a culturally responsive and sustaining instructional context.
- Classroom Communities: Developing a classroom culture that welcomes and affirms the individual identities and strengths of each student.

Objectives:

Learners will:

- Describe characteristics of effective teacher language and utilize the language with students.
- Identify and explain 3-5 strategies for redirecting, correcting, or de-escalating problem behavior.
- Administer a logical consequence to a student using precise language.
- Demonstrate the appropriate mindset with which to approach student misbehavior and explain why that mindset is key to effective behavior management.
- Utilize questioning to address student behavior and focus on solutions.

- Apply strong classroom procedures.
- Create a plan for addressing misbehavior in the classroom utilizing the research-based information from the learning activities.
- Evaluate the proper time to use various strategies and implement them as needed for student success.
- Redirect or de-escalate student misbehavior to quickly reengage the class to the learning.
- Compare traditional punishment to a logical and solution-oriented approach.
- Analyze ways that special populations may be disproportionately harmed by punishments and consider ways to have more logical consequences and restorative responses.
- Consider the role of implicit bias in disciplinary consequences.
- Analyze disciplinary disparity statistics.
- Analyze school policy to identify practices that either create barriers or offer support for students.

Criteria from Rubric (the criteria marked by an asterisk (*) will be evaluated this year but providers may address other criteria):

* Goals clearly connect to supporting teachers in developing more equitable practices for all students, in particular those who have been historically underserved and marginalized (including but not limited to students of color, students with disabilities, and multilingual learners)

* Course integrates historical and contemporary resources and research that reflect and center the experiences and perspectives of non-dominant racial and cultural groups

* Course builds participants' capacity to identify and question underlying personal and institutional beliefs, norms, practices and assumptions that contribute to inequity

- Authentic Task: Response to Misbehavior
- Discussion Question: The Right Strategy for the Right Situation
- Reading Analysis: Verbal De-escalation Techniques to Use With Students

Application to Instruction and Student Learning:

In this module, participants examine a variety of techniques for responding to misbehavior which occurs despite the strong proactive strategies discussed in previous learning. Participants learn how to redirect and correct misbehaviors when they happen and strengthen their ability to implement the consequences or solutions which were evaluated in the previous module. The learners evaluate several communication techniques when responding such as the 4-step technique, asking questions, focusing on solutions, and other restorative practices which preserve student dignity while redirecting the behavior. This module features highly interactive discussion boards where participants collaborate to share and evaluate management challenges, and the appropriate reaction to various misbehaviors. The participants synthesize their learning by creating final project components for classroom procedures and responses to frequent behavior challenges.

- Instruction that Reflects Students: Developing a student-centered approach to rigorous content instruction that acknowledges and affirms students' cultural experiences, knowledge and expressions as assets for teaching and learning.
- Classroom Communities: Developing a classroom culture that welcomes and affirms the individual identities and strengths of each student.

Objectives:

Learners will:

- Evaluate the importance of procedures and the role they play in preventing disruptive behaviors.
- Design classroom procedures that clearly define what students should do in any scenario.
- Examine the details of current procedures to determine any need for improvement.
- Determine whether room setup supports newly designed procedures and make alterations for more efficient procedures.
- Implement and analyze one of the downloadable resources from this course to determine how the resource meets the needs of his/her students or colleagues.
- Utilize various technology resources to help with classroom management
- Directly teach procedures to set students up for success in the classroom.

- Create a plan for teaching and reinforcing procedures to students.
- Determine effective and equitable classroom rules and determine how to implement the rules for the success of all students.
- Learn to plan classroom procedures and routines that build student capacity for self-regulation.
- Analyze a variety of classroom rules and procedures to determine which may contribute to inequity.
- Reflect on their own practices and determine to what degree their own unique identity, experiences, and culture contribute to their classroom management philosophy.

  - How do you think the culture, identity and lived experiences of your students will impact the effectiveness of this method?
  - How might you modify this method for your specific population of students?
- Classroom Practice Analysis
- Reading Analysis: Tear Down Your Behavior Chart!
- Discussion Question: Sharing Best Practices: Rituals and Routines

Application to Instruction and Student Learning:

In this module, participants walk through the steps of designing purposeful and well-thought-out rituals and routines that maximize learning time by establishing clear expectations for student behavior. The learners consider different procedures for using technology to assist with management, and how to evaluate your room setup for how effectively it supports your classroom procedures. Finally, the participants create a plan for teaching procedures to students, including how to reinforce these procedures throughout the school year. Two discussion boards facilitate a collaboration where the best practices for rules, rituals, and routines are shared. The module culminates in the creation of two final project tasks where participants create equitable and effective rules and plan efficient classroom procedures.

Application to Instruction and Student Learning:

In this module, participants evaluate several strategies for establishing and reviewing classroom rules. The learners apply the techniques learned to several different scenarios by considering both preventative and responsive strategies. The module introduces the Safety, Order, & Rights value set, and the participants examine how it can support the creation of classroom rules. The learners determine and justify what elements, strategies, and/or mindsets are most important to building a classroom culture of learning. The course culminates with the synthesis of all the final project tasks into a Classroom Culture Plan. Collaborative discussions review and evaluate the plan, leaving all participants with actionable strategies for a more effective, efficient, and engaging classroom.

Appendix A: Discussion Boards and Rubric

Discussion Boards:

Module	Title	Text
1	Motivation in Your Classroom	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Introduce yourself to your colleagues. Include your name, title, location, number of years in education, and what you hope to learn or take away from this course.</li> <li>2. Reflect on Daniel Pink's Ted Talk. What resonated with you? How did the research he cited compare to your own understanding of what motivates you? How might we apply this research to classroom management?</li> <li>3. Finally, respond to one of your colleagues by sharing a connection or reaction to their thoughts on how Pink's research can be applied to classroom management. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
1	Reflecting on Your Childhood Discipline	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. How were you disciplined as a child -- both at school, and at home? Be specific about the strategies your parents and teachers employed.</li> <li>2. Evaluate these strategies using at least one of the theories of motivation discussed previously (intrinsic vs. extrinsic, autonomy/mastery/purpose, the Six Cs of Motivation, growth mindset). Did the discipline strategies of your childhood speak to what motivates you? Why or why not?</li> <li>3. How do you think the discipline strategies used in your childhood impact your classroom and behavior management tactics today?</li> <li>4. Consider the experiences of families from non-dominant cultures. How do you think historical experiences of marginalized ethnic or cultural groups may result in a different experience in traditional school discipline than those from the majority culture?</li> <li>5. Finally, respond to one of your colleagues by sharing a connection or reaction to their thoughts. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
2	Refining Your Vision	Reflect on the last two presentations (Theories &amp; Models and PBIS), as well as your classroom vision. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. How has your vision for a classroom culture of learning evolved throughout the last two presentations? Share at least three new strategies or ideas that you've added into your classroom vision. You may pose questions to your colleagues in your post regarding aspects of your vision that you're struggling with, or specific scenarios you still feel it needs to address.</li> <li>2. Consider how PBIS and Restorative Practices can contribute to a more equitable school environment. How can punitive and retributive methods contribute to inequity in school discipline?</li> <li>3. Respond to one of your colleagues by sharing a connection, reaction, or suggestion to their discussion post. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>

2	Adding in Engagement Strategies	Reflect on the various engagement strategies learned throughout this presentation, and the role that motivation and teacher-student relationships play. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. What specific engagement strategies or structures will you add to your culture of learning plan? Discuss at least three and explain why you think that those three will give you the best return on investment.</li> <li>2. Respond to one of your colleagues by sharing a connection, reaction, or suggestion to their discussion post. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
3	School/District Discipline Policy	Research your school and/or district discipline policy; you can search online if you don't already know where these policies are located. Make sure to check your school or district's: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• teacher/employee handbook</li> <li>• student handbook</li> <li>• parent handbook</li> <li>• departmental guidelines</li> <li>• anything else that may contain information about discipline policies</li> </ul> Read through each document's discipline section in order to answer the following questions in a discussion board post: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. What do these documents says about the overall approach to discipline?</li> <li>2. What procedures are in place for responding to misbehavior?</li> <li>3. What behaviors are you expected to address in your classroom, and at what point should they be elevated to an administrator?</li> <li>4. What do these documents say about consequences?</li> <li>5. What is the suspension policy (from class and from school), and what is the definition of "suspension?" Does sending a student to the office count as a class suspension?</li> <li>6. Are there any guidelines about when and how parents should be contacted about misbehavior?</li> <li>7. Consider all these policies. Are the structures restorative, punitive, or a combination? Can you identify any policies that may contribute to inequity in the school system?</li> <li>8. Respond to at least one colleague with a connection, reflection, or answer to one of their questions. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol> Make a note of anything that will assist you in developing a list of appropriate consequences for your classroom. Remember that future modules will cover responding to misbehavior, rituals &amp; routines, and classroom rules, so be sure to make a note of anything pertaining to those topics as well.
3	Collaborating to Serve All Students	Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. What did you learn about implicit bias and how that phenomenon can affect historically marginalized students? What steps can a teacher take to reduce the effects of implicit bias?</li> </ol>

		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Who can you call on for support with students who are at risk, have special needs, or both? Make a list of team members at your school that you can lean on. Your list might include fellow teachers, your teaching assistant, administrators, special ed team members, or support staff, such as those in the office.</li> <li>What students and families do you think may have been underserved by the schools in the past? What systems are in place to help these students today? Are there any practices you have put in place that help serve these special populations?</li> <li>What other resources can you draw upon? (curriculum, websites, professional development opportunities, etc.)</li> <li>Respond to at least one colleague to collaborate on resources or strategies. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
4	Putting Our Heads Together	Reflect on your experiences in responding to student misbehavior. Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>What aspect of classroom management do you find easiest, and what do you attribute this to?</li> <li>What aspects do you find most challenging? Pose 1-2 questions to your colleagues asking for advice, ideas, or strategies related to these challenges.</li> <li>Respond to at least one of your colleagues by offering advice, ideas, or strategies to the question(s) they posted. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
4	The Right Strategy for the Right Situation	Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>In what types of situations could you see yourself using the 4-step technique? Why?</li> <li>In what types of situations could you see yourself using restorative practices? Why?</li> <li>Do you feel like you or your colleagues may have difficulty implementing a primarily restorative discipline system? Do you think that students "learn more from a consequence" or "deserve a punishment" more so than a restorative approach? If so, is that opinion based in research or in underlying traditional assumptions that may need to be questioned?</li> <li>Respond to at least one of your colleagues with a question, connection, or suggestion. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
5	Sharing Best Practices: Rituals and Routines	Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>What are the most effective rituals and routines that you have already implemented? Describe them in enough detail that someone reading your post could replicate in their own classroom.</li> <li>What new procedures or room arrangements that you just added to your Classroom Culture Plan are you most excited about implementing? Again, describe them in enough detail that someone else could learn from them.</li> </ol>

		<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>3. What rituals or routines do you find most challenging? Pose a question to your colleagues asking for advice.</li> <li>4. Respond to at least one of your colleagues by offering advice, ideas, or strategies to the question(s) they posted. 5	Sharing Best Practices: Rituals and Routines	Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. What have been your biggest challenges when it comes to teaching and reinforcing procedures in the past? (This might be specific procedures that have been challenging, or general aspects of procedures that have been tricky.)</li> <li>2. Think deeply about the classroom management and discipline practices you have utilized. Are there any traditional practices that you have abandoned because they seemed unfair, overly punitive, or counterproductive to a positive classroom environment?</li> <li>3. What are you planning to change in the future about how you plan, teach, and/or reinforce procedures to make them more effective? Why do you think this will prove more successful?</li> <li>4. Respond to at least one of your colleagues with a question, connection, or suggestion. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
6	Reviewing Your Classroom Culture Plan	Read through your Classroom Culture Plan and make any final adjustments. Remember that this is a living document that you can and should come back to throughout the school year to reflect on and revise. Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. How has your classroom vision and plan for culture changed over the course of each module? What adjustments did you make after looking back at the first few sections with fresh eyes? What changes did you make based on concern for special populations and historically marginalized groups?</li> <li>2. What questions do you still have, or challenge do you still foresee that you would like your colleagues' input or advice on? Specific questions will likely elicit more specific answers.</li> <li>3. Respond to at least one of your colleagues by offering advice, ideas, or strategies to the question(s) they posted. (Your response should be meaningful, with a goal to push each other's thinking rather than offering a superficial exchange. Please see rubric)</li> </ol>
6	Final Thoughts	Post to the discussion board answering the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Which ideas presented in the course did you find to be most valuable? How successful have the techniques worked for you, if you've had the opportunity to use them?</li> <li>2. ## Appendix B Assignments and Rubrics

Authentic Task 1 COLLECTING DATA ON STUDENT BEHAVIOR

Develop a tracking system for monitoring student behavior. For this assignment, complete the following (Note: You will be graded based on the rubric in this document):

Step 1: Ensure There's a Purpose for the Data

Consider: What data is needed for report cards that isn't already being collected? Are there specific behaviors that you'd like to "nip in the bud?" What are your professional development goals around behavior, if any? Do you have an inquiry question such as, "Why do students seem to call out more often in the afternoon?" that data could help you answer?

Step 2: Choose One or More Data Points

It's okay to track just one behavior at a time if that feels more manageable and/or helpful.

Step 3: Decide When to Collect Data

During what class activities or what time of day will you collect data, and over what time period (e.g. six weeks)?

Step 4: Decide How to Collect Data

Make sure it's a system that you can maintain (e.g. do you prefer handwritten or electronic notes? How often is it realistic for you to collect the data?)

Step 5: Plan How to Analyze Data

Every Friday with a colleague, for example.

If you're feeling stuck, check out the data tracking tools on the PBIS World website or TeacherVision for ideas. There are also several apps (read this article before using) that help teachers track behavior: ClassDoJo, Otus, and Hero, to name a few.

Authentic Task 2

RESPONDING TO MISBEHAVIOR

Develop a flowchart, mind map, series of “If... Then” statements, or other representation that clearly charts out your plan for responding to misbehavior. For this assignment, complete the following (Note: You will be graded based on the rubric in this document):

Step 1: Identify Problem Behaviors

Describe common problematic behaviors that you encounter with students. At least five behaviors are required.

Step 2: Identify Strategies for Responding to Misbehavior

Describe which strategies for responding to misbehavior will be used for each of the behaviors listed in Step 1.

- If you're feeling stuck, check out this Responsive Classroom article, the Teach Like a Champion strategy "What To Do," this PBIS document, or this Special Education Guide.

Step 3: Identify How Logical Consequences/Solutions will be Administered

Consider the 4-Step Verbal Technique, Restorative Justice Techniques, and the 5-Step Verbal Technique.

Step 4: Map Out Exactly How You Will Respond

Develop a flowchart, mind map, series of "If... Then" statements, or other representation that clearly charts out your plan for responding to each misbehavior.

- Consider: Which strategies will you use for each behavior, and in what order? How will your response and/or the administration of logical consequences/solutions change based on the specifics of the situation and/or the specific student?
- The more detailed your map/plan, the better. Walking through these various scenarios in your head now will make you more prepared and able to react confidently and calmly when they happen in real time. Choose whatever type of map, diagram, or format that makes the most sense to you and supports your thought process.
- Note: Though you may brainstorm possible logical consequences for different scenarios if you'd like, remember that consequences/solutions must be related, respectful, reasonable, and helpful, and therefore they must be tailored to the exact situation and student each time.

Classroom Practice Analysis

For this activity, you will choose one of the downloadable resources from the course to implement in your practice. If you are in the classroom currently, you will answer the first set of questions. If you are on break or not currently teaching, you will answer the second set of questions.

In the Classroom:

- What is the name of the resource?
- Why did you pick this resource to implement? Please be specific.
- Before implementing the resource, what were your expectations on how it would impact your practice?
- During implementation did you alter the resource in any way?
  - If so, how? And why?
  - If not, why?
- How did students/colleagues respond during/after the resource? Do you think it positively impacted your audience? Why or why not?
- How did the resource impact your practice? Please be specific.
- No resource is neutral, from a critical consciousness perspective. What is the viewpoint/background of the author/creator of this resource? How might that viewpoint/background affect the way you use this resource, or make it more or less effective at working with your students?
- How do you plan on improving the resource for the future?

Out of the classroom:

- Why did you pick this resource? Please be specific.
- No resource is neutral, from a critical consciousness perspective. What is the viewpoint/background of the author/creator of this resource? How might that viewpoint/background affect the way you use this resource, or make it more or less effective at working with students from varying backgrounds?
- How do you plan on using this resource?

- What specific modifications will you make to the resource to ensure its effectiveness in the classroom/with peers?
- How do you think this resource will impact your classroom/peers?
- How will you measure the success of this resource (e.g., assessment, data collection, etc.)?

Appendix C Final Project and Rubric

Classroom Culture Planning Document (Final Project)

For this assignment, complete the following (Note: You will be graded based on the rubric in this document):

Consideration of Diverse Students:

All aspects of the plan should consider the wide range of cultures, identities, lived experiences, and needs of the learners in your classroom.

Task 1: Motivating Your Students (Module 1)

What motivational strategies and/or strategies for cultivating a growth mindset will you utilize with your students? At least five strategies are required.

Task 2: Your Classroom Vision (Module 1)

What is your vision for a classroom culture of learning? Consider:

- What are students doing?
- What are you, the teacher, doing?
- What kind of thinking and learning is taking place, and how?
- How are students interacting with one another?
- How do you approach and interact with students, and what is your overall approach to discipline?

Task 3: Praising Your Students (Module 2)

How will you utilize praise/encouragement with your students? Include at least three common phrases that will support your plan.

Task 4: Engaging Your Students (Module 2)

How will you engage your students, and how will this support your vision for a culture of learning? Include:

- At least five engagement strategies.
- A time frame for implementation.

Task 5: Considering Your Special Populations (Module 3)

How will you differentiate consequence (what they are and how they are delivered) for special populations of students? Consider:

- How will you identify the function of a child's Tier 3 behavior?
- What preventative measures will you consider taking to support students in Tier 3?
- If you are currently working with a student who is exhibiting Tier 3 problem behaviors, what specific strategies will you try with that student moving forward?

Task 6: Your Logical Consequences / Solutions (Module 3)

What logical consequences or solutions will you utilize with students?

Note: It is strongly recommended that you make a general list of consequences or solutions to choose from, rather than pre-matching consequences/solutions to common behaviors or creating a hierarchy of consequences.

Task 7: Your Response to Misbehavior (Module 4)

How will you respond to student misbehavior? Include:

- The specific strategies you will utilize.
- The tenets of effective teacher language will you uphold while responding.
- The mindset you want to maintain while responding.

Task 8: Your Class Procedures (Module 5)

Describe your class procedures using positive, step-by-step, student-friendly language. At least ten procedures are required. Include:

- Considerations for “what if” scenarios (e.g. What if their pencil breaks? What if they need to use the restroom? What if someone gets hurt? What if they need help?)
- A description of how the room arrangement will support each procedure.

Consider:

- volume level
- materials: which may be used, where they are stored, and how they may be obtained
- plan for early finishers
- where students are allowed/not allowed to be

Task 9: Teaching & Reinforcing Your Procedures (Module 5)

How will you teach and reinforce each procedure listed above? Consider:

- When will you introduce each procedure, and how? (The more detail, the better!)
- How will you know when it’s time to reteach or reinforce a procedure?
- How do you want to react in the moment if you notice students not following a previously taught procedure?
- What method(s) will you use to reteach and/or reinforce procedures?

Task 10: Your Classroom Norms (Module 6, Presentation 2)

How will you develop your classroom norms or agreements with students? Consider:

- How will you revisit these norms or agreements halfway through the semester or school year?
- At what other points might you revisit your norms or agreements?
- How will you display your norms/agreements in a way that will both remind students of what they are and show that they actually contributed to their creation (e.g., having students sign the poster that they are written on.)?

Task 11: Implementing & Revisiting Your Plan (Module 6, Presentation 3)

Write an action plan with clear steps and target dates outlining when and how you will implement your Classroom Culture Plan. You may use the template provided below or create your own. Include answers to the following questions:

- What aspects of your plan are “must dos” (essential to implementation) and what aspects are “may dos” (not a top priority, but would be ideal to fulfill)?
- When would you ideally like to have each aspect implemented by? When do you feel each aspect must be implemented by?
- When and how will you revisit, reflect on, and revise your Classroom Culture Plan?
  - Consider dedicating a solid few hours of time at least once a month. Also consider, who, if anyone, you will collaborate with when revisiting.

Downloadable Resources

Behaviors That Violate the Safety, Order, & Rights Value Set

This tool acts as a quick reference sheet to determine when common student misbehaviors violate which of the Safety, Order, & Rights Value Set. This helps create a systematic approach to analyzing the severity of misbehavior and formulating an appropriate response.

Computer Password Cards

This tool helps students use technology independently. The password cards contain all needed student passwords and can be easily stored by the teacher in a recipe card box or by each student. Educators should be vigilant about lost cards, and make sure account passwords are changed if the account data is compromised or lost.

Differentiation Planning Template

This tool helps plan how to differentiate projects or activities for your students. This facilitates differentiated planning, which increases motivation and will allow students to work more efficiently.

Positive Behavior Chart

This tool is designed for students exhibiting Tier 2 or Tier 3 behaviors. It is ideal to use this tool in collaboration with a special education team member who can advise on what behavior to target and what reward to offer.

Student Motivation Questionnaire

This tool helps gather information to learn more about the students you serve. For younger grades, these questions could be asked whole-group and recorded via a checklist, tape recorder, or through handwritten or typed notes. They could also be asked in a one-on-one setting or during parent-teacher conferences. The data helps educators be responsive to students.
