Course Description

The goal of this course is to provide participants with the necessary skills to identify, diagnose, and meet the needs of at-promise students. The first half of the course focuses on establishing a definition of what it means to be at-promise, identifying the causes and manifestations of students at risk, and empathizing with the needs of at-promise students. In the second half of the course, participants will explore a variety of classroom-, district-, and community-based strategies and programs for students at risk.

Objectives

As a result of this course, participants will:

- Examine the factors and needs-deficiencies that put students at-risk.
- Assess the impact of various risk factors on the at-promise student and the overall classroom environment.
- Apply effective strategies for addressing the needs of at-promise students in their classrooms.
- Explore a variety of district- and community-based programs designed to meet the needs of at-promise students.
- Create a plan for the effective implementation of various classroom-, district-, and community-based strategies to address the unique needs of an at-risk student.
