PORTSEA CALENDAR AUTOMATIC

The Portsea represents our modern twist on the traditional 'Marine Chronometer', a design that is based on the sea-clocks that were historically found on ships in the 18th century that aided sailors in determining longitude through celestial navigation.

With a multi-layered construction, the Portsea dial exhibits great depth that is enhanced by the use of a thick ceramic main disc in lieu of traditional enamel dial construction.

Powered by a premium 'triple-calendar' movement, the Portsea also features a 316L stainless steel case, coin-pressed case back and premium leather straps.

OPERATING INSTRUCTIONS

Your Portsea timepiece is fitted with the Miyota (Citizen) Cal. 9122 automatic movement with triple calendar complications.

The crown may be placed in 3 positions as per the image below.

- A. Fully pushed in – when in this position, the crown can be rotated clockwise to manually wind the movement.
- B. Partially pulled out – The middle crown position allows for the date to be adjusted by clockwise rotation and the day to be adjusted through counter-clockwise rotation.
- C. Fully pulled out – when in this position, the crown can be rotated in both directions to set the time.
- D. To advance the month, depress the pusher button located above the crown on the side of the case.

Notes:

1. The triple calendar requires manual advancement of the date and month for months with less than 31 days.
2. Do not manually adjust the day, date or month during the automatic change-over time period between 12am and 3am as this may damage the gearing in the mechanism.
