For decades, families have come and gone in a particularly strange house. But with every new family that moves in, someone doesn't make it out alive. Following the ghastly discovery of bodies, the secrets that the house has kept over the years are finally exposed.

1938, a mahjie from Shunde province arrives in Singapore to work for an affluent Burmese-Chinese family but unexpectedly falls in love while discovering secrets of each family member.

1963, a westernized Chinese girl marries into a superstitious Peranakan family together with her servant and soon finds herself drawn into a life of dreadful beliefs.

1988, a capable granddaughter inherits the family business and discovers a target on her back while uncovering her grandfather's death.

2023, a mystery author moves into the house with her tech CEO husband and soon discovers hidden scars and traumas of each other.

Love can empower and enslave. When confronted, which way will you take, and how far will you go?
