Q&A

PARKER & JULES

Nancy Parker, a fashion insider, and interior designer Juliet O'Carroll, are working in collaboration to create beautiful fabrics. Juliet tells us more about it...

Tell us about your debut range of fabrics? It is English heritage evolved for contemporary interiors. Named Near and Far, it's inspired by daily life in the valleys and the pulse of life; what we see and love around us and far away. From fairy tales to folk art and the Far East and its journey into the familiar.

How do you combine your strengths in fashion and interiors to work together?

Nancy's expertise in print design has left her very open to comment. I find it amazing how she always sees this as a possibility to improve our final design or colourway; she's always prepared to go further. I admire that and it has been very exciting to watch things develop. Her knowledge of colour harmony and fashion trends has underpinned her style and eye for the stories we develop.

Do you follow trends? Inevitably we do and we feel drawn to fresh ideas or to certain colour combinations. We love conversational art as well as folk florals and camo patterns
