

Summer of Stories -

WITH THE
NATIONAL TRUST

National Trust

The National Trust Children's Country House is tucked away in the heart of Ashbourne, Derbyshire.

Hailed as the first 'Children's Country House' in the National Trust collection. Sudbury Hall has set out on a mission to make National Trust properties more family focused.

Sudbury Hall and grounds has been transformed into a magical experience for children. From the Museum of childhood, to the room of disco balls, children's library, interactive kitchen and so much more!

Story Imagin-ory were so happy to be invited to be a part of this amazing project, and have been working in partnership with the National Trust since 2020

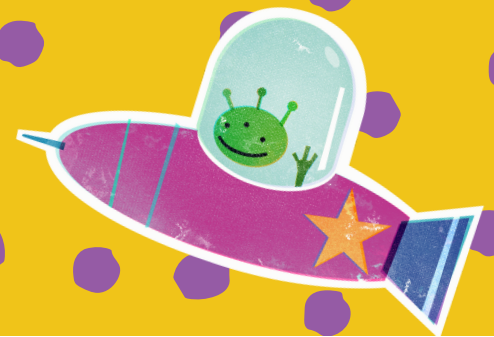

Story Imagin-ory South Leicestershire spent several days at the property this summer.

Situated under the old oak tree, Sam lovingly re created traditional tales for families and children of all ages.

Laughter floated on the air, shrieks were heard as the troll emerged from the bridge, and the cries of 'again!' as the story ended.

Generations of families enjoying the wonder of storytelling, coming back time again throughout the day to experience it again and again.

Story Imagin-ory opens up a whole new world of working. Storytelling for a living in the most wondrous of places. Our sessions appeal to organisations such as the National Trust, as we bring quality, education and shared values.

Experience the full session

Families were able to experience the full session, including our dedicated play time. During our explore time children and families were able to 'Play' stories through a variety of activities. Including role play, messy play, construction, art and creativity, numeracy, and of course a dedicated book area!

With scores of people saying 'We wish you were in our area', as there is truly nothing like Story Imagin-ory on the market.

Be a part of the best. The need for quality storytelling and childrens class provisions at an all time high, could you bring Story Imagin-ory to your area?
