HAND RAILING

Deckz Hand Railing, where form meets function. A beautiful addition to your newly decorated space, Deckz hand railing is strong, durable, and safe.

Made from the same composites Deckz is known for, you can have confidence that your hand railing will last just as long as your decking, or cladding. The strong composite structure means that it can be lightly sanded, so no matter how many knocks or bumps it endures, it stays looking fresh and new.

Cleaning is minimal too, with a light wash needed occasionally. There's no need to worry about moss, mildew or other damaging elements as you would with wood products. Our composites are maintained with minimal effort.

Hidden strength

A unique feature of Deckz hand railing is hidden away beneath the aesthetic. Inside each composite post stands a solid internal steel post, providing a level of stability not offered by other similar composite products on the market. Once installed, the steel posts cannot be seen, but instead offer an invisible level of support that will put your mind at rest and leave you free to enjoy your space.
